

STATE PROBE ASKED
IN LIGGETT DEATHMinnesota Senator Offers
New Demand for Legislative Inquiry.MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 17.—(P)— A new demand for a legislative investigation of the recent assassination of Walter Liggett, Minneapolis newspaper publisher, was made today.It came from State Senator Mike Gavin, of Winona, who offered a resolution proposing appropriation of $100,000 to finance an inquiry by committee which also would investigate strike riots here a year ago.
Previously the legislature received another resolution calling for $50,000 to finance investigation of the Liggett case and crime conditions here.In his jail cell today Isadore Blum-feld said he expected to be indicted for the Liggett killing."But they can't convict me," he shouted. "They're trying to make a fool out of me. They're trying to use me to clean up dirty Minneapolis."EAST POINT LODGE

Running Close Race for "Popularity" Crown

Which one of the pretty young girls shown here is your choice for queen of the third annual grand charity ball which begins at 9 o'clock tonight at the Shrine mosque? On the left is Miss Margaret Wakefield and on the right is Miss Eleanor Roberts, who are running neck and neck in the popularity contest sponsored by the Big Brothers. One of them will be crowned queen of the ball tonight to rule over the gay festivities.
Voting continues until 11 o'clock, so come out to the mosque and cast your ballots.Economists Render Split Verdict On U. S. Public Debt Burden LimitBy CECIL DOUGLAS.
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.)CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(P)—A jury of the nation's leading economists gave a split verdict today on the engrossing question: "How huge a debt could the United States carry?"Of the experts polled, from Maine to Nebraska, the largest group agreed with the bankers who, President Roosevelt said, told him a load of 55 to 70 billions might be borne. Several held it would not be advisable, however.A second bloc echoed the recently announced belief of Winthrop W.
Aldrich, president of New York's Chase National Bank, that definite figures could not be advanced. Too many imponderables intervened in the mathematics of the problem, they suggested.Others warned that the federal debt should not be allowed to expand much further for fear of impairing American standards of living. In this connection, former President Hoover asserted yesterday at St. Louis that Uncle Sam's unpaid commitments would reach from 32 to 35 billions next summer.Heavier Taxation.
Pointing to Great Britain's debt, which he estimated at around $44, 000,000,000, Dr. Alvin H. Hansen, of the University of Minnesota, said a total of 55 to 70 billions would require "heavier taxation of the masses" but could be carried in America. He said England's per capita taxes were much heavier than those of this country.In general agreement with him were:
Franklyn Hobbs, Chicago business analyst: "Such a debt wouldn't be appalling if the money were expended properly."
Professor Albert B. Wolfe, chairman of the department of economics, Ohio State University: "I see no reason why we couldn't carry a national debt of 70 billion dollars. I don't think it would be advisable, though."Professor E. E. White, University of Wisconsin: "Such a debt (70 billions) would still be less than that now carried by England."
Dr. Isaac Lippincott, Washington University, St. Louis: "We could pay a national debt of the amount, but it would be a terrible burden and the burden would fall mostly on the middle class." He added that by his figures America's debt—national, state and local—totals 45 billions now.Qualifies Support.
Dean J. E. Lerosignol, of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration, qualified his support for the top figures with the view: "It could be handled without its becoming burdensome if there were no state and municipal debts to be met."Professor H. B. Kirshen, of the University of Maine, said he believedBIG BROTHERS' BALL have large sums in intangibles which have not yet posted. That is a mistake, we have entered every item we have any hope of getting at this time."Intangibles Blamed.

Practically the entire deficit shortage is laid at the door of intangibles, according to taxing authorities.Last year the city agreed, for the purpose of getting intangibles on the tax records, to accept stock and bonds at 15 per cent of their face value, mortgages at 25 per cent of their face value, and cash money on deposit at 5 per cent.It was believed that millions of dollars' worth of intangibles never before placed on the digests would thus be placed there voluntarily by owners, and the expectation was never realized.For the past several days negotiations have been progressing by leading bankers for the same arrangement for 1935 with city and county authorities.Records To Be Open.
Under the new plan for the filing of federal income tax returns, it is said federal records for each current year will be open to the inspection of city, county and state authorities after March 15 of each year.It is pointed out the cities and counties of the state will have access to such records and that they can proceed against persons who have not returned their intangibles.No definite agreement has yet been reached between representatives of in-tangible holders and city and county officials, but the negotiations are still in progress.650 More Names.
There are 650 names on the tax records of the city assessors this year than were included in last year's totals. The 1935 total is 66,665 as against 65,985 for 1934. In 1935 there were 59,948 persons who filed their returns in regular order. To this figure has been added the names of 6,717 persons who did not place their names on the digests.In 1934 a total of 57,058 persons filed returns, and 61,745 were issued against 6,975 persons who failed to make returns.The 1935 records carry $246,400,756 for real estate, from which it was anticipated that a $245,000,000 valuation would go into the city records, but personal properties estimated at a value of $100,000,000, netted a total valuation of $91,080,755.Water receipts of the city from all sources for the first 11 months of 1935 totaled $1,080,113.91 as against $1, 618,205.78 for the first 11 months of 1934. This was a gross gain of $70, 908.13 from all water department sources.The city pumped 10,597,540,000 gallons for the first 11 months of 1935 as compared to 10,154,460,000 for the corresponding period of 1934.There are about 5,700 meters now in service by the department, representing a gain of 774 over 1934.COAL ACT COMPROMISE REFUSED BY NEW DEALPHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—(P)—
The government flatly refused today to compromise its position on the Guif-ey act regulating the soft coal industry.John Henry Lewis, representative of the United States attorney-general's office, told Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick he had no right to grant an injunction asked by the Westmoreland Coal Company and the Stonewall Coal Company to prevent the government from collecting taxes. The law provides for a 15 per cent tax of the gross sales of companies which do not join the coal act's code.FIVE BANK BANDITS
SEIZE $10,000, ESCAPEARDSLEY, N. Y., Dec. 17.—(P)— Five robbers staged a swift holdup of the First National Bank today, snatching $10,000 in cash, got away without a shot being fired, and apparently escaped into New York city.
The bandit automobile was found abandoned near the New York city line in Yonkers.

Injured.H. C. Hicks, 21, Georgia Tech freshman, was killed instantly yesterday in an automobile accident at Hampton, Ga., and a companion, Mrs.
Louise Freeman, 20, of Atlanta, was injured critically.Chief of Police A. D. Lovin, at Hampton, said that the accident occured in the center of the town and that Hicks was driving at a high rate of speed. The car plunged off a curve when the youth was unable to make the turn, crashed into a gasoline pump and then into a telephone pole.
Witnesses said the car was "folded up."Hicks was dead when he was extricated from the wrecked machine. Mrs.
Freeman was taken to a Griffin hospital where her condition was said to be "desperate." She was reported to be suffering from a fracture of the skull, bruises and possible internal injuries. She was in an unconscious condition.Mrs. Freeman was identified by her sister, Miss Bernice Wright, of Atlanta. Her address was given as the Bonaventure apartments, 789 Ponce de Leon avenue. Hicks was identified by co-operative store coupons issued at Georgia Tech.Hicks was enrolled in the textile course at Tech, according to Dean Floyd Field, and was an Alpha Tau Omega pledge. He was a graduate of Anniston High school, Anniston, Ala.His father, H. M. Hicks, was reported by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, as an employee of the Anniston postoffice. News of the youth's death was communicated by telephone to his parents by Dr. Brittain.MENINGITIS CLAIMS

THELMA TODD'S DEATH IS BAFFLING TO POLICE

friends as "Hot Toddy," was found yesterday at 10:30 a. m. in the front seat of her big town car—in the garage of West's cliff-side home.What caused her to take refuge there instead of going to her near-by apartment when she returned early Sunday morning from a gay Hollywood party went unanswered.Also unsolved was the identity of someone with whom she presumably made an appointment for 2 a. m.
Sunday."A major question," said Captain of Detectives Bert Wallis, "is her reason for going to the garage.""We expect the inquest to disclose why she was locked out of her apartment and why it would have been necessary for Roland West to let her in.""It's my opinion she and West had a tiff, Saturday night, when she was leaving for the party she attended. I believe he told her to be home by 2 o'clock, or she'd find the door locked."

West Silent.

West declined to discuss the point, although officers previously reported he had asked her to return to the cafe building by 2 a. m. Sunday if she wanted him to admit her.West is a former movie producer and director, who was a 50-50 partner, with Miss Todd, in the sidewalk cafe, a beach restaurant.Officers also were puzzled as to why the ignition switch of the car was turned on but the motor was not running. The gasoline tank contained 2 1/2 gallons of fuel, police said.The actress' mother, who told the Hollywood restaurant at about 2 o'clock, telling him Miss Todd was on her way home. Grauman said the actress told him to make the call.She did not leave the restaurant, however, until around 3 o'clock, Prince said.Police detectives returned to Miss Todd's cafe today to question the conclusion he reached in preliminary work, last night."Monoxide poisoning," he said, "her blood was carrying poison up to 70 per cent of saturation point."
"Her brain showed alcohol to .13 per cent of the saturation point."He said this was sufficient percentage to cause either drowsiness, intoxication or both.Commenting on Dr. Wagner's report, Coroner Frank Nance said:
"There undoubtedly had been a higher alcoholic content, but a large portion probably was eliminated by oxidation between the time she left the Hollywood party and the time of death. Indications were found that there had been sufficient alcohol to stupefy her. Increased heart action caused by the alcohol would have pumped the monoxide poison through her blood in a few minutes."The original police theory was that Miss Todd, finding herself locked out of her apartment when she returned home, went up the hill to the garage.
"She opened the door, got in the car, started the motor," Captain Wallis theorized. "Either she intended to drive somewhere to sleep, or she planned to wait for the sidewalk cafe to open.""It was then 4 o'clock or 4:30. She would have had to wait only two hours, at most. Perhaps she started the motor, trying to keep warm."Talked to Actress.
"She may have gone to sleep, or been seized by a heart attack, causing her to lose consciousness. The motor ran on. The times did the rest."But this reconstruction was vividly challenged by the positive statement of Mrs. Martha Ford, wife of a film actor, that she talked, by telephone, to Thelma Todd in the late afternoon, Sunday.Mrs. Ford stuck to the story in the face of police belief that "somebody was playing a joke on you," on the actress' phone in the house.

CALLES STRIKES BACK
AT SOLONS' BANNINGFormer 'Strong Man' Denies
He Contemplates Conspiracy Against Cardenas.MEXICO CITY, Dec. 17.—(P)— Former President Plutarco Elias Cal-les charged today four state governors and five senators were removed from office illegally "for the sole crime of being considered friends of mine."The one-time "strong man" of Mexico, just returned to this country after a period of voluntary exile in the United States, revealed his adherents were organizing a political party."This action," said Calles in a statement, "neither constitutes a crime nor a subversive act. It is necessary for the nation to know that General Calles is not a conspirator and has not returned to provide agitations of any kind."He urged his former army comrades, including President Lazaro Cardenas, to declare he had "never urged them to abandon their duty."The four governors, heads of the states of Sonora, Sinaloa, Durango and Guanajuato, were accused by the senate of having aided Calles in alleged seditious activities. No reports had been received here as to whether they attempted to resist dismissal.The government forbade announcement of the removal of the governors outside of Mexico City, apparently in an attempt to prevent any political trouble of having aided Calles in alleged seditious activities. The senators of the four states were said to have been strengthened, while new governors were installed.In another shift today, General Pedro Alameda was returned to Mexico City from the Vera Cruz military zone, where General Heriberto Jara Corona succeeded him in command.On going home from the party, she asked her driver, Ernest Peters, to hurry so that she could keep an appointment. Presumably this referred to an engagement she previously said she had made with someone for 2 a.
m. Sunday.

Death By Poison.

Dr. Wagner said the final results of the autopsy bore out the conclusion he reached in preliminary work,
last night."Monoxide poisoning," he said, "her blood was carrying poison up to 70 per cent of saturation point.""Her brain showed alcohol to .13

NATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO 4 AIR PIONEERS

Wright Brothers' First Flight Commemorated in Kitty Hawk.

DAYTON, Ohio, Dec. 17.—(AP)—America paid homage to four of its pioneers of aviation today, and received a hint of new accomplishments to come.

Leaders of American official aeronautics carried personal greetings from President Roosevelt to Orville Wright, first to fly a heavier-than-air machine, on the 32nd anniversary of that flight. They paid honor at a luncheon to Captain A. W. Stevens and Orville Anderson, army fliers who recently rose higher above the earth's surface than man ever had before. With them, they placed a memorial wreath on the grave of Wilbur Wright, co-builder of the "first airplane."

And at Kitty Hawk, N. C., from the sand dunes on which the Wrights flimsy box-kite bi-plane rose, citizens placed a wreath on the Wright Memorial, a 60-foot granite shaft on Kill Devil Hill.

Captain Stevens told the 600 persons gathered at a civic luncheon that a balloon larger than the one he last used may make possible ascent of 95,000 feet, "a few feet off 18 miles, the absolute ceiling with present equipment."

A bag of 3,700,000 cubic feet capacity carried Stevens and Anderson to a record of 72,295 feet.

Orville Wright, attending luncheon and cemetery ceremony, characteristically said nothing, throughout the tributes paid to him by Brigadier General Oscar Westover, acting chief of air corps; Rear Admiral E. J. King, chief of the navy bureau of Aeronautics, and Dr. George W. Lewis, director of air research, Eugene Vidal, director of the air commerce bureau of the Department of Commerce, also attended.

They, with President Roosevelt in his letter, pointed out the accomplishment of the Wrights resulted in more aviation progress in the past 32 years than in the century and a half before in which flight had intrigued mankind.

Rum Runner Caught.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17.—(AP)—An unidentified vessel with a cargo of liquor was reported captured by the coast guard off the Gulf coast and 1,100 cases of liquor seized were taken last night to Mobile aboard a steamer.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS SPREADING XMAS CHEER DAILY

Wrigley Representatives Greeted Everywhere With True Christmas Spirit.

By MISS MINT (The Wrigley Representative)

If you would like to see some of the most colorful, festive, and cheerful people in the world, come along with Mr. Wrigley and one of our many representatives. We are spreading the cheer of the holidays through the city and its neighboring communities. Everywhere we go, we find hundreds of faces bursting into sunny smiles just as though we were actually Santa Claus himself. Santa has one pleasant duty work in Atlanta each year, but just think of the many weeks of pleasant work we have had; and our dollar supply seems inexhaustible. We can add to your holiday cheer by spreading the cheer of the holidays by providing you have an opened package of one of the Wrigley brands, Double Mint, Spearmint, Juicy Fruit, or Peppermint, and you will find a BELIEF IN PREPAREDNESS.

T. E. DANFORTH, 101 Ridgeland Way, was found with three of the Wrigley brands in his possession. He remarked: "Any one of the Wrigley brands is in a quality class all by itself." This comment netted Mr. Danforth a crisp new dollar.

Scan the following list for your name or that of a friend or relative. If your name isn't listed, please forgive me as space only permits the listing of just a few each day.

Mr. Spear, I and our many assistants will try our very best to see all of the Wrigley stores in Atlanta. We are working all day, every day, in the attempt, so be prepared with your favorite Wrigley flavor.—(adv.)

Brass-Buttoned 'Santa Claus' Writes 'Ticket'

A merry Christmas is on the way for about 500 needy Atlanta children, with Patrolmen J. D. Stribling and his little helper, "Officer" Bernard Blackwell, taking orders for candy and using all the profits to supply toys and other Christmas "necessities" for the less fortunate children. The pair of blue-coated, brass-buttoned Santa Clauses are shown above "writing a ticket" for a passing motorist for a box of the good cheer candy. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

Safety Driving Saves Gasoline As Well as Life, Council Asserts

The optimistic driver believes in taking a chance. The pessimistic driver has a calmer life, but a longer one.

Which of these two types of drivers would you rather be? That question is asked today by the Safety Council of the Constitution, which is sponsoring a safety campaign in Atlanta and vicinity aimed at cutting down the tremendous loss of life and limb from automobile accidents.

But being a "pessimistic driver," the Safety Council points out further, does not mean being an unhappy one. It means simply being a common-sense driver who will not take foolish and unnecessary chances that too often end in death.

Essence of Safety. The person who travels at a reasonable rate of speed saves gasoline, trouble, money—and human life. This statement is more than a safe-

LUCREZIA BORI WILL QUIT OPERA

Famous Singer Says She Is Retiring To Keep Postponed Promise.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Lucy Bori, who established precedent last night as the first member of the Metropolitan opera directorate to sing a role, today announced her retirement from opera at the end of the current season.

Her announcement took the form of a profession of faith in the future of the Metropolitan and opera in America as she explained the circumstances of her retirement to keep a postponed promise to herself.

Miss Bori, who has made five appearances and would only gradually give up singing. Edward Ziegler, assistant general manager, speaking for Edward Johnson, manager of the Met, who was in Philadelphia today, expressed the regret of the management at Miss Bori's decision.

A native of Valencia, Spain, Miss Bori made her operatic debut in Rome in 1908 and in New York in 1912. She said today she has learned the regret of the management at Miss Bori's decision.

CLARKSTON TO NAME 4 COUNCILMEN TODAY

Four councilmen will be elected at Clarkston today, Mayor H. K. Hensler announced yesterday. J. C. Estes has announced to succeed himself. Other candidates, from whom three are to be elected, are J. Frank Kelley, L. H. Johnson, J. S. Jackson, J. A. Maury, George W. Perry, and W. H. "Doc" Jones. Mr. McCord is a candidate for the unexpired term of T. M. Walcott, who has resigned. E. H. Bond is a hold-over.

41 States Are Recruited in Drive To Reduce Annual Auto Death Toll

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Forty-one states and the District of Columbia are now recruits in an unprecedented drive to reduce the nation's 98,000-a-year traffic toll, the National Safety Council announced today.

Sixty-six cities and several hundred industrial concerns have also pledged co-operation in the council's five-year campaign aimed at bringing about a 25 per cent reduction in the number of lives lost in motor vehicle accidents.

Auto mishaps cost 38,000 lives in 1934. Council statisticians figured that all time high would be equalled this year.

To curtail this slaughter the organization has devised a program of education, engineering and enforcement in which these states, cities and private firms will participate. It is scheduled to start January 1. Efforts embrace the education of drivers, elimination of hazards and obstructions along streets and highways, enforcement of traffic regulations, attempts to secure uniform drivers' license legislation, and standardization of signs, signals and motor practices throughout the country.

The council disclosed definite prom-

"TEETHINA Moves My Bowels Gently - Softly"

"Me and TEETHINA are mighty good friends because when I am constipated, TEETHINA does me right up. It moves my little bowels without a wee bit of strain and I feel like I have a new stomach. My mama says a whole lot of folks use TEETHINA for colic due to sour stomach and for diarrhea caused by improper feeding. TEETHINA goes down easily because it comes straight. You can buy a package from your drug store man for just 35c."

Safe Driving Pledge

In the interest of accident prevention and safer conditions on the highways and in co-operation with the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, I am making the following pledge:

1. To drive at moderate speed and on own side of road.
2. Not to pass cars on curves or hills.
3. To stop at stop signs.
4. Not to jump traffic lights.
5. In city traffic to be particularly watchful for pedestrians stepping into the line of traffic from parked cars.
6. Always to give hand signals showing my intention of turning to the left, to the right, or stopping, and not to leave the curb from a parked position without giving a signal.
7. To be fair to other drivers in all respects and to refrain from reckless driving.

Fill out and mail this pledge to the Safety Council of The Atlanta Constitution, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for return of windshield stickers.

YOUTH IS GIVEN LIFE FOR POISONING KIN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Superior Judge Joseph Vickers sentenced Leroy Drake, 19, today to prison for life for poisoning his elderly great uncle and aunt, who had cared for him since his childhood.

Drake halted his murder trial last week and confessed guilt.

He told the court he poisoned Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinhueber because he "could not stand to see them suffer from the disgrace" of a theft case in which he was involved.

After passing sentence Judge Vickers said Drake's manner convinced him the youth harbored some deeply rooted religious complex.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR MERGER PLAN DETAILS

15-Mill Tax Limitation Also To Be Discussed; Recommendations Probable.

The proposed merger of overlapping departments in the governments of Fulton county and the city of Atlanta, and the proposed 15-mill tax limit, will be taken up by the Fulton grand jury at a special session at 10 o'clock this morning.

A number of citizens have been invited to appear by Foreman Thomas A. More, but he announced that anyone who wishes to speak on the questions will be heard from by the grand jury.

At 10 o'clock this morning, the grand jurors will hear pro and con discussion of the 15-mill tax limita-

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR MRS. W. P. MAUDE

Funeral services for Mrs. Walter Preston Maude, noted poet and prominent Atlantan, were held yesterday at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son with Dr. W. W. Memminger officiating.

Mrs. Maude, a sister of Reuben R. and Thomas D. Arnold, prominent Atlanta attorneys and a half-sister of Quincy Arnold, assistant solicitor-general of Fulton county, died Sunday in a private hospital after a short illness. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

grand jury's stand on both questions will be contained in the final presentation.

SCHOOL FUND PLEDGED
IN 1936 BY TALMADGEBoard of Education Makes Allocations for Year on Governor's Assurance.

On assurance of Governor Talmadge that the state will maintain its payments to common schools next year, the state board of education yesterday prepared its 1936 departmental allocations.

Talmadge, faced with operating the state after January 1 without an appropriations act, has given public assurance that the schools next year will receive as much from the state as in 1935, minus the $1,000,000 diversion from highway funds.

The 1936 departmental allocations were adopted as a resolution yesterday by the board of education, attended by the Governor, State Superintendent M. D. Collins said.

This year's payments from the state's general fund to the common school system was $4,565,000. In addition the schools received about $2,000,000 from gasoline and kerosene taxes.

Georgia's WPA Benefits
Amount to $12,812,137.20

Georgia's benefits from the WPA from July 1, the date it came into existence, to December 14, have totaled $12,812,137.20, it was announced yesterday from Works Progress Administration headquarters. That sum allotted to projects within the state has been made available from a fund of $14,973,392 authorized in Washington.

Money allocated to projects is being applied to loans and grants on state and local projects according to employment needs.

President Roosevelt has approved projects totaling $55,765,848 for the state, but this does not represent cash. The projects constitute a pool from which Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator, has been permitted to select those best suited to employment demands as funds are made available.

Administrative expense was not included in the allocations. Miss Louisa DeR. FitzSimons, director of intake and certification, said administrative costs were "lower than in most other states."

version added, the total payment of $8,200,000 exceeded payments to the schools in any other year.

Another resolution adopted by the board yesterday called upon school officials to give "strict enforcement" to the state law requiring observance of Temperance Day in the public schools on the fourth Friday in March.

"There has been a let down in temperance observance generally in the state of Georgia," the resolution said, "and it is becoming more important that the children of the state be acquainted with the evils of intemperance and the dangers of alcoholic drinks."

The resolution was offered by Judge L. A. Whipple.

NEGRO CAROLERS TO GIVE CONCERT

Morehouse, Spelman Singers
To Unite in Thursday Night Program.

For the ninth consecutive Christmas season the students of Morehouse and Spelman colleges will join in a Christmas carol concert in Sisters' chapel tomorrow night and will present a variety of carols of many lands. The concert, which starts at 8 o'clock, will be open to the public.

Among the group participating in the concert will be the Spelman-Morehouse chorus of 40 voices; the Spelman Glee Club, the Morehouse Glee Club and the quartets of the two colleges. The program will be directed by Kemper Hurrell, director of music, assisted by Willis Laurence James and Naomah Williams Maize, of the music faculty.

A feature of the 1935 program will be the singing of several negro Christmas spirituals. In addition, the groups will sing a number of the classical English, French, German and Polish folk songs of the Christmas season.

The concert will be opened by the traditional lighting of the candles and the procession of the singers into the chapel. On the night of the concert the living Christmas tree in front of the chapel on the Spelman College campus will be illuminated for the first time.

HONOA IS TAKEN TO MILLEDGEVILLE

Unless Governor Intervenes, Slayer of Lord Will Go to Chair Friday.

Marrin Honoa, condemned slayer of David A. Lord, started his last automobile ride yesterday afternoon unless Governor Talmadge extends executive clemency before Friday.

Honoa is under sentence to die in the electric chair at Milledgeville Friday morning, on the exact anniversary of the day he shot and killed young Lord during a holdup of a Center Hill filling station.

Appeal for clemency began Monday at the state capital, with Linton S. James, lawyer, representing the doomed killer. The hearing continued yesterday, but Governor Talmadge made no announcement of his decision.

Fulton County Deputies Sheriff Grant and Jordan escorted Honoa out of Fulton Tower yesterday afternoon and into the automobile which was to carry him to Milledgeville. Before he left, Honoa shook hands with all his jailers and bade them goodbye. He appeared calm and undisturbed. Deputy Sheriff Bob Holland reported.

Shortly before the deputies came for him, Honoa took leave of William Sisk, his co-partner in the slaying of Lord, who also is under sentence of death. Sisk's appeal is being considered by the supreme court.

Sam Daniel, third accomplice in the Center Hill murder, is serving a life sentence.

GERMAN RED LEADER
BEHEADED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Rudolf Claus, German communist leader, was beheaded today after Reichsfuehrer Hitler refused him clemency.

Claus was sentenced by the Nazi tribunal, the people's court for "preparation of high treason," last July 25. He was a former associate of Max Hoels, leader of post-war revolts in Germany.

At the same time, the death sentence of another communist, former Reichstag Deputy Albert Kasper, 36, was commuted to life imprisonment by Hitler. Kasper also had been sentenced for high treason.

ADVERTISING MEETING WILL BE HELD TODAY

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 18, 1935.

NO TIME FOR DILLYDALLYING

Whatever may have been the causes for the delay in starting the school improvement program, the time has come when dillydallying must be brought to an end, and concentrated effort be made to avoid the necessity of abandonment of some of the items of the $1,000,000 program promised the voters when they ratified a $275,000 bond issue to secure a federal grant of $800,000.

Despite the fact that three months have passed since the overwhelming approval of the proposal by the voters of the community, not a lick of work has been done on any school building in the city—and there are still no definite plans assuring that work will be gotten under way at once.

Two months ago federal officials notified the city that the WPA was ready to start work on the school improvement program. Again a month ago these officials warned that further delay would endanger federal assistance to the full amount promised.

But still the bickering and dillydallying went on and now it appears that the entire program can not be participated in by the government because of the time limit set on WPA projects.

The people of the city are not interested in the details of the controversies that have been responsible for the endangering of the school improvement program. What they want, and are entitled to, is the completion of the program as it was submitted to them in the bond campaign.

It may not be too late to go forward along the lines first proposed, and if there is a possibility that this may be done, there should be united—and frictionless—effort to that end.

If the entire project is not completed, there will be a public demand for an explanation of the causes behind the inexcusable delay that has imperiled the betterment of the city's structures devoted to the instruction of our boys and girls—an explanation that will leave no doubt as to the responsibility of those who have been unwilling to get together in a spirit of co-operation in order that the interests of the city might be safeguarded.

IN HITLER LAND

Information that Herr Hitler, erstwhile Austrian paperhanger who is now dictator of Germany, has banned music by negro jazz bands will count one point in his favor with many people, but when we read that the code that a woman's body belongs to society is being advanced by the Nazis as one basis of an intensified campaign for a larger population, and that decrees are expected changing divorce laws and those pertaining to illegitimacy of children, the average individual will forget that one point and chalk up several black marks to the score already recorded against nazism, its high priest and all its works.

The exhortation to men, and especially to farmers, is that lessons from farm animals and plant biology should govern their selection of mates. "The maintenance of our people's blood heritage is primarily the farmer's task," was stressed at a national peasants' convention where general policies were enunciated for the coming year by Nazi speakers.

One writer in the official press service of the Nazi woman's organization exclaimed: "No German woman, whether young or old, and no German girl of today has the right to consider herself a private person who can do with herself and her health what she pleases."

Cannon fodder!
The women of a nation of 65,000,000, in effect, called upon to nationalize their bodies that they may the faster bring into the world boys to replace those who were slain in the former emperor's disastrous attempt to conquer Europe!

And for what purpose? To build Hitler's military strength to the point where he can attempt the same thing!

Already the German people are tightening their belts and going without adequate food that the government may spend money building warships, making cannon, small arms and air bombers.

And this is the country that expects nations of the world to send the flower of their youth next year to contest in athletic events held within her boundaries.

To Catholic and Masonic baiting and Jewish persecution they would add degrading their own women to the level of female animals, while urging men to the grossness of their natures.

What has become of the famed "German Kultur?"

A MEMORIAL TO WAYNE

There should be unusual interest in Georgia in the proposed memorial to commemorate the treaty of Greenville, in what is now Ohio, and as a memorial to "Mad Anthony" Wayne, one of the outstanding military geniuses of American history.

When the colonies declared their independence Wayne was following the pursuit of farming, but raised a regiment, with which he took part in the campaign in Canada in 1775. He commanded Fort Mifflin, and was named a brigadier general and joined Washington in New Jersey, taking a leading part in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown. In 1779 he achieved the brilliant capture of Stony Point, for which he was given a gold medal by congress.

Coming south, he rescued Lafayette in Virginia and then came on to Georgia, where he led the Americans in the defeat of the combined forces of the British and Indians.

Wayne, although born in Pennsylvania and being a member of the convention and legislature of that state in 1774, settled on a Georgia plantation following the war, the plantation having been presented to him in recognition of his military service. Later he was elected to congress from Georgia, but in 1792 was named commander-in-chief of the American army, with the rank of major general.

In 1793 he took the field against the Indians in Ohio, decisively defeating them at the sanguinary battle of Maumee Rapids and forcing the remaining tribes to sign the treaty of Greenville, which ceded a huge territory to the United States.

It is pointed out by the Greenville Treaty Memorial Association, which is headed by citizens of the little city of Greenville, Ohio, that "General Wayne had failed in his fight against the Indians, but he was not defeated, for he had failed before him, and the British had acquired the territory—or the French—the growth of the republic would have stopped at the Ohio River."

The importance of the proposed memorial is revealed in the statement that in the defeat of General St. Clair in 1791 more American soldiers were killed than in any battle of the Revolution, while in Wayne's victory more Indians were killed than in any other battle between them and American soldiers.

The proposal has been sponsored and endorsed by the Ohio legislature, the state's delegation in congress, by leading legislative societies in other states and by outstanding citizens in every part of the country.

There are all too few memorials standing on spots made sacred by the dauntless bravery and hardihood of the American soldiers whose heroic deeds brought about the creation of what is now the world's greatest nation. Certainly there should be nationwide interest and co-operation in the effort to suitably mark the scene of a battle that played so prominent a part in extending the boundaries of the country westward.

Jefferson's Motto.

"How much pains the evils have taken that have never happened!" They say that it was President Jefferson who pronounced this profound thought. An Englishman wrote to his paper the other day that he had seen the words engraved on the walls of his dining room. Why in the dining room, I don't know, unless it is not to let indignation be interfered with by anxieties that may never mature. Probably some close student of Jeffersonian lore might dig up the true quotation, for the version of the same thing which I heard ran this way: "I am a man who has seen many troubles—and most of them never arrived." In some such shape it is generally attributed to Mark Twain. Whatever the origin, it is sound advice and well to be remembered. We are too often inclined to look for trouble and scan only the dark side of things, and to look forward to the next ice age as far away yet.

"Army-Conscious."

I read that a big exhibition is to be given in several German cities under the name of making the people more "army-conscious." That is a very fine thing, but you would not think that it was necessary, no more necessary in fact, than it is in this country, to make the people more "army-conscious." At any rate, the German people are to be made aware of the fact that the army officer, who is so often pictured as a stupid and unintellectual type, is not so at all. The democrats only made him appear that way in their writings.

The exhibition is to show war literature, that is to say, only that war literature composed by nazis. Such books as Erich Maria Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front" are strangely missing. And for a good reason: War is to be glorified as a noble and lovely business. It's strange, but there are actually people in this world who say they think that this is true. How they feel about it when war is going on, and when they are themselves involved in it, actively, that is to say, on the battlefield, I cannot tell. I have never met a man in the trenches who said he loved it.

Castor Oil.

Among the new measures announced in Italy to combat the sanctions is the intensified cultivation of the castor oil plant. "Castor oil plants," we read, "are to be cultivated in every spare patch of ground in the vicinity of airports, to supply the military air force, and the same one, I seem to remember, but perhaps the rankest kind they could discover, was used by the army medical corps for soldier-pilots. I used to get those things every morning when I was in hospital. I can taste the damned stuff yet. Mussolini also had his dillydallying in the matter of the castor oil. He refused to take it. Later he gave it, or rather had it given, to political opponents.

However, castor oil was famous in Italy long before our time. This is written about the end of Machiavelli's "The Prince" in Latin. He increased his ailment by an overdose of castor oil, a medicine then in particular repute, and died two days after, on the 22d June, 1427. Think of it, friends, died of castor oil. What a horrible death!

HOW ESTHER WAS CHOSEN

QUEEN.

After the death of Queen Vashti, King Ahasuerus issued orders for the fairest maidens of the kingdom to assemble before him in order that he might select from among them one to succeed to the throne.

In the city of Shushan, there lived a very beautiful maid, Hadassah, by name, the cousin of Mordecai, a most pious and noble man, who had taken the little girl into his home upon the death of her parents and had raised her with loving care.

Indeed, she was very appropriately named Hadassah, which means Myrtle, because, as the fragrance of the myrtle permeates the garden wherever it grows, so did her many kind deeds spread her name among the inhabitants of the city in which she lived.

When the decree of King Ahasuerus was issued, Mordecai had Esther from the house of his king's cousin, who had been sent to search out the most beautiful maidens of the land. The spies of the king, who had heard of Esther's beauty, called at the house of Mordecai and begged him to put her to death unless he brought her forth.

Reluctantly he did so and Esther was taken to the king's harem, where she was given to each maiden, as well as the eunuchs, special hand maids, who were assigned to help the maidens adorn themselves for the royal inspection.

All of these Esther declined, and when she appeared before the king it was without artificial adornment or make-up of any kind.

There she stood in her modest, innocent, radiant beauty among the most beautiful maidens of Media and Persia. Her simple charm and grace attracted Ahasuerus the moment he set eyes upon her. Without an instant's hesitation he selected her as the most beautiful maiden in the land and placed the royal crown upon her head.

On the day she officially became queen, he arranged a grand banquet and issued a decree exempting all the inhabitants of his kingdom from paying taxes for a whole year in honor of his beautiful queen.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

RESTRAINT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Dullest Washington meeting since congress adjourned was the republican national committee gathering. Some faces were old, some new, but the speeches were all old. Do not let that fool you.

Lack of interest was due to the fact that the real meeting was held ahead of time with a wide disregard for publicity. The boys got together the night before. An incipient convention site contention between Chicago's Frank Knox and Kansas City's Alf Landon was amicably settled by choosing everybody's Cleveland.

The story is that Landon's supporters decided not to press the site point on such personal grounds, and pulled their punches. That may or may not be true.

The point is personalities were subdued in a situation involving such personalities as Messrs. Hoover, Borah, Knox and Landon.

FEARS The whispered reason why the bigwigs turned Kansas City down is that they were afraid of another farm march on the convention. There was a minor one there back in 1928. At that time, the radicals got together and annoyed Reed Smoot's platform committee. The inner councils suspected that a repetition of the 1928 incident might be organized on a larger scale this time. At any rate, it was a worry.

Similarly, there was some fear that the Kelly-Nash administration in Chicago might put firecrackers in the seats of delegates, if the convention went there.

These fears helped to make the Cleveland decision easy.

KNOX Plentiful Knox advisers at the private republican gabfests were advising him two ways. They said he was making too many speeches; also that they were glad to have someone coming into their districts with pep talks.

Most discussion centered around the friendliness between Knox and Senator Vandenberg, and what that might mean when the balloting starts.

The only satisfactory answer was that Senator Vandenberg's Michigan delegation to the convention will be unopposed, but will contain several Knox delegates. Knox and Vandenberg are boyhood chums. If there is a political understanding between them, inquisitive moguls could not find it out.

LONDON The Governor of Kansas will keep on being that. His men here laughed off the pressure put upon them to make him take a stand on every passing national issue of the day—bonus, the AAA, and other matters which may be settled elsewhere before the campaign starts. They seemed to detect that the heat on them came indirectly from the hands of Mr. Hoover and Senator Borah.

FLOORING Down extra deep on the inside here are some suspicions that the Securities and Exchange Commission has just taken the old pre-depression ground-flooring in mind. A few speculators took hold of a stock for themselves and let their friends in on the ground floor, then excuse themselves and let everyone else awaken in the basement.

The commission is supposed to be restraining itself to see what the market correction committee will do about this trio of matters.

SILVER Another unmentioned angle behind the tarnishing silver policy issue is that the war scare is over, the treasury is going to have a problem of relationship values between the dollar and the pound. The pound will certainly go up in relation to the dollar. Well—you wouldn't support the silver market now, would you?

NOTES Ultra-fashionables who have seen "The First Lady" in New York say it is misnamed. The inside on that is it is a story of Cissie and Alice, not Eleanor, and not especially good.

Mrs. Knox is residing in the mild climate of Washington this year, rather than Asheville, so that the colonel can fly down from Chicago each week-end.

No one at the republican national committee gathering found out who Charles Hilles was for, although everyone tried to. The doubt is supposed to lie, not in Mr. Hilles' mind, but in his tongue.

The new Berry council of labor leaders and businessmen is being referred to by his polloi as "The Berry Pickers." The betting is 10 to 1 that the results will be more razz than straw.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

I don't mind sleeping too in a bed, but answer, please, this riddle: Where am I going to lay my head if your half is to lay the middle?

Pantomime

My copy of The Era, London theater publication, is devoting much space nowadays to the current pantomime season in England.

The annual Christmas pantomimes are a form of stage entertainment America has never known. Personally I think the loss has been the American stagegoers, for some of the best of the theater have been at pantomimes.

The "pantomime" is in reality a misnomer as applied to these shows, for they are far from pantomime. The annual Christmas pantomimes are a form of stage entertainment America has never known. Personally I think the loss has been the American stagegoers, for some of the best of the theater have been at pantomimes.

It is a surprising thing but, in my young days, everybody considered a pantomime an absolutely essential part of the Christmas program. Supposedly entertainments for children, they were actually just as appealing to adults and the older people used to take the youngsters with them, ipso facto explaining they "went to the pantomime to give the kids a treat," rather than the same manner many grown folks never miss a circus—because the children insist on going, you know.

There has always been a fairly large segment of the British population, more or less well-to-do members of the nonconformist churches, chiefly, who consider the theater a place of sin and never go to any kind of a show—except a pantomime at Christmas. They are the modern-day prototypes of the old Puritans of Cromwellian times.

The Christmas pantomimes are far from the highest type of entertainment. Much of the comedy is highly suggestive and the songs are frequently of the risqué type, nevertheless the strictest church member takes his entire family to at least one pantomime at Christmas.

Harvest For Variety Artists. The pantomime is a financial godsend to performers from vaudeville and the variety halls. Or were, perhaps I should say. For these productions the players of the legitimate stage, generally speaking, are ignored and the most dignified of theater troupes, their stages to the more boisterous and, generally speaking, lower-browed comedies and vaudeville chorines from the ranks of the two or three a day.

Each theater makes its own pantomime and some of them are gorgeously spectacular. They go to any expense and trouble to create a filling and fantastic stage settings and there are always throngs of chorus girls to fill the stage for these big numbers. A pantomime is generally known for its fire works and it goes to the limbo of the theatrical storehouse, never to be seen again. A new show entirely must be created for the next year.

Nursery Tales

For the Books.

The "book" of an orthodox pantomime is always a well-known nursery story. "Cinderella," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "All Baba" are perennial favorites. I note from the "pantomime" in The Era, the following holding forth this year:

The Forty Thieves, "Sinbad the Sailor," "Aladdin," "Dick Whittington," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Cinderella," "Robinson Crusoe," "Red Riding Hood," etc.

Every pantomime cast contains a "principal girl," the sweet and lovely heroine, and a "principal boy," the

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Sidney Smith

And the Gumps.

ROME.—Of all the emulations of the Big Boom there was one that was deserving to be called the perfect flower of the Era of Wonderful Nonsense than the late Sidney Smith, the comic artist, who drew The Gumps. Sidney was Andy Gump himself. He was a money-lover at heart, and as he made money beyond his own most fabulous dreams he expressed his love for raising Andy from modest circumstances to vast wealth. Early in the game, as his own earnings increased, he put Andy into the stock market and won him a fortune. Not content with that, he presently invented a long-lost uncle from Australia, Bimbo Gump, the billionaire.

He raised Andy a childish delight in depicting Bimbo Gump surrounded by huge stacks of currency and strong-boxes bursting with jewels and gold. At that time, Andy Gump was an incalculable fortune, he passed out his fortunes to Andy and the family. Money was a subject that was always on his mind. His work was autobiographical, so he used himself as the theme of his long continuity.

To describe Sidney as a money-lover is not to say that he was uncommonly so, but that he was unusually so. He found the money pouring in on him after many years of experimenting with comic strip characters on the Chicago papers and his amusement grew as his royalties mounted.

Sidney erected a statue of Andy Gump on his estate. He had likenesses of Andy and Bimbo Gump engraved on his automobile, which was the most luxurious that money could buy. He took a house in Palm Beach, and on the side of the house he hung a plaque of Andy, on the other side a plaque of Bimbo. He hired a retired prize fighter to box with him, for he was a good-sized man with a childish desire to punch people in the nose and boast of fist fights that he had won.

Socked

One and All.

One night in New Orleans he spent a whole hour going over his collection of money. He was for the entertainment of a dark-browed, fat, listless, there had been in Miami a taxi driver who had tried to short-change him in New York. Sock-sock-sock! Sidney had socked them all and left them for dead. "Is it?" exclaimed one of the route-boys admiringly. "Those certainly must have been wonderful fights. I certainly wish I could have seen those fights."

On his fiftieth birthday Sidney gave a party for about 50 persons in Palm Beach. He led off with caviar and champagne, a copy and would up with black cherries in burning brandy also at three dollars per head. And from start to finish of the long evening the waiters were bringing in champagne at $25 a quart.

"I make so much money I don't know what to do with it," Sidney said. "I've got a yacht, too. But, God, I'm tired. I do five miles of route every morning, but this morning I did seven miles. How is that for a man fifty?" Turning to the woman sitting next him, Sidney said: "I'm around in his chair, placed her hand on his leg and said, 'Feel that! How is that for a man fifty years old? Is my arm, too. How is that for an arm?'"

Mister Flagg. Sidney suffered a painful social and professional rebuff that winter when the Artists' Writers' Golf Tournament was held in Palm Beach. Meaning no harm, he called around to meet the New York artists in the tournament and soon was telling them how much money he made. He made more than any two of them together. But the New York artists had a low opinion of his art and the humorists thought his humor horrible.

"Flagg—" Sidney began, addressing James Montgomery Flagg, a man of poisonous moods. "Mister Flagg to you, Smith," said Flagg, and turned away. Sid couldn't understand the aloofness of the New York man. He never went back. Whether Andy Gump was humor or not, he became a famous American character. If there was anything humorous in Sidney's favorite exclamations, "Oh, Minnie and 'Soup' on!" it was very obscure to the intelligent, but they became popular expressions and millions of people thought they were funny. Andy Gump refused to nominate himself for two national party conventions and isolated popular votes on several election days. Sidney himself became a celebrity, a demand as a speaker or guest at Babbitt luncheons. State legislatures invited him to honor them with a visit. He loved it. He was a popular man. Big Shot, getting richer all the time, and the routine by which he manufactured situations and drawings was now so well organized that he became almost an absentee comic artist. He had a continuity man to write his material and a forger or ink-monger to go over the penciled outlines with ink.

Unlike. And stranger of all in Original. Sidney Smith's career was that his creature, Andy Gump, was a flagrant violation of the original character as it had been handed to him in 1917. His instructions were to keep Andy Gump in moderate circumstances, the typical, socially clumsy, suburban American husband of a common-place wife and father of a plump child. As this character began to bring in royalties Sidney correspondingly improved the fortunes of Andy Gump until Andy, like Sidney himself, was rolling in money and Uncle Bimbo Gump moving through the story with his billions. This was contrary to orders from upstairs, but the steady increase of Sidney's own royalties showed that millions of people had the same dreams.

So Sidney's career was the realization of the ambition of the greatest number of Americans. He never got education or refinement. He just got enormously rich.

When the King Favors Bearded Men, All Who Can Do It Grow a Beard

By ROBERT QUILEN.

We are told that this is the era of the forgotten man, which means, if it means anything, that the poor man at last shall obtain justice and equality and the consideration to which every free man is entitled.

But that blessed state is not yet his. In great cities there are trial courts of two distinct kinds. In one you will find dignity, learning, cleanliness, courtesy, costly furnishings, comfort. It is the place where rich men are tried.

In the other you will find drabness, dirt, bad smells, ignorance, rudeness. It is the place where the poor man is tried.

If a poor man violates the law, he is promptly arrested. He may not be clubbed or handcuffed, but he is held by the arm, pushed, pulled, jerked and subjected to humiliating indignities. He is thrown into a vile-smelling cage to await trial and then is fined or sent to prison.

If the rich man is displeased by a law, he calls a press conference and announces that his company intends to disobey it.

Thereafter he operates in violation of the law safely shielded by high-priced attorneys, and never once does an officer of the law so much as lay a finger on his sacred person.

When the poor man violates a traffic law, the officer who gives him a ticket speaks to him in the manner of a tough drill sergeant breaking in a recruit.

When the rich man violates the same law, the same traffic cop touches his cap in salute.

Poor men are sometimes hanged or electrocuted for murder. You will hunt in vain for the record of the execution of a rich one.

The simple fact is that we still have one law for the rich man and another for the poor one.

Is it any wonder that men worship money and sacrifice everything else to get it?

They would strive as hard for college degrees if college men were given honors, respect, consideration, immunities and privileges denied to all others.

BANK HEADS DIVIDED ON SURPLUS PROBLEM

Federal Reserve Governors in 3-Way Split Over Excess Money Issue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A three-way split among federal reserve officials on the problem of excessive bank reserves was emphasized today by a meeting of governors of the 12 reserve banks.

They convened for the last time as the system's "open market committee," with the responsibility of advising reserve banks on purchases and sales of government securities.

Such transactions have a direct effect upon the level of the reserves, which today stood at a peak of $6,040,000,000. Of this, $3,310,000,000 was in excess of the amounts which the law requires that member banks keep on deposit with the reserve banks. A credit boom, economists say, could multiply the excess into more than $20,000,000,000 in bank loans.

Some of the governors were understood to feel the reserves should be depleted by the Federal Reserve Board through the use of its power to increase reserve requirements, thus removing from the money market a large slice of the potential credit base.

On the other hand, the federal advisory council, composed largely of business men, has recommended that the reserves be reduced through the sale of government bonds now held by the reserve banks. The member banks would buy them with the reserve funds.

The controlling group—the reserve board itself—disagrees with both. It feels that nothing should be done for the present. It believes controls are adequate for a quick application of the brakes, should a credit boom reach dangerous proportions.

SOCIAL MEDICINE DEBATE SCHEDULED Boys' High Society To Hold 61st Annual Exercises Tomorrow.

A debate on the question of socialized medicine will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the Atlanta theater by the Alcephron Literary and Debating Society of Boys' High School.

The debate will feature the sixty-first annual exercises of the society, and will be under the direction of A. E. Pace, of the school's English department, faculty debating adviser for the society.

Eugene Ransom, president, will preside, assisted by Ed Yancy, vice president, and Corbett Peck, secretary. The debate question will be, "Resolved: That a system of Socialized Medicine should be adopted, making available to all complete medical service at public expense."

The affirmative will be debated by Frank A. McFall, James Barron and George Copeland, and the negative will be debated by Graham Watt, Bob Becht and William Lemon.

The declamation program will include Frank Stone, Charles Aronson and Charles Massell. The high school orchestra, directed by Gaines W. Walter and Bill Cary, will present several numbers. Models will be awarded the debaters and declaimers. The public is invited.

U. S. ARMY CONTRACTS FOR 100 NEW PLANES

Sen. Frazier Scoffs at Defense Preparations as Inadequate in Address.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A War Department contract for 100 swift troop-carrying planes and a senatorial condemnation of a "mad orgy of war preparations" today into public attention.

The $2,065,074 contract for 100 planes and spare parts equivalent to 15 more ships was awarded to the Northrop Corporation of Inglewood, California. The planes, to augment the strength of the general headquarters air force, will have a top speed of 250 miles an hour, carry a two-man crew, four fixed and one flexible machine gun, racks for four large or 20 small bombs and chemical distributing equipment.

Senator Frazier (Republican, North Dakota), in a radio address, scoffed at all defense preparations as inadequate in the presence of "modern scientific war methods." War preparations, he said, are pointing the country toward bankruptcy. He demanded a halt to billion dollar appropriations for the army-navy defense system.

Asserting that appropriations of $1,003,872,143 were made available to the army and navy for 1936—the largest in the peacetime history of the nation—Frazier deplored "reports that the administration is going to ask the coming congress for a further increase for war purposes."

The airplanes under today's contract will be of all-metal construction. Characteristics will include a fighting ceiling of 20,000 feet and an eight-hour flying range at a cruising speed of 220 miles an hour. They were designed for operation against troops and ground combat equipment.

Today's award was believed to be a portion of an expected total of 500 new ships costing upwards of $20,000,000.

B. O. JOHNSTON RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for B. O. Johnston, 16, of 1902 Colquitt street, N. W., who died Monday night at Grady hospital of injuries suffered Sunday in an auto crash, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Atwell & Lowndes with the Rev. Sam A. Columbus Man Named To Head Georgia Group as Convention Ends.

Election of H. R. Mott, of Columbus, as president of the Georgia Bottlers' Association, was announced yesterday following the final meeting of the organization's eighteenth annual convention, 27th annual of Atlanta, was named vice president, and Fred S. Gould, of Atlanta, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

New directors chosen were George Cobb Jr., of LaGrange, retiring president; William G. Brindine, of Fort Valley; J. N. Glover, of Savannah; J. Clyde Newman, of Albany; L. B. Harrell, of Waycross; Columbus Roberts, of Columbus; Arthur Nims, of Macon; J. W. Smith, of Manchester; Harry Miller, of Augusta; W. A. Sims, of Athens; Alfred L. Barron, of Rome, and L. F. Montgomery, of Atlanta.

Principal speakers at the final session were Willis Battle and E. C. Murphy. Following adjournment a golf tournament was held at the East Lake Country Club.

ALABAMA MAN KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Coroner Paul Doneho returned a verdict of accidental death last night in the fatal plunge of W. W. Bradford, 40, of Fairfax, Ala., from a second story window of a hotel at Marietta and Bartow streets early yesterday morning.

Bradford was found, clad only in underwear and socks, lying in a yard at the rear of the hotel. The coroner reported that the door of Bradford's room was locked and that the window was open but the shade was drawn.

Belief was expressed that Bradford may have lost his balance and plunged through the window. The lights in the room were on and no indication of suicide was found, the coroner said.

Dr. O. B. Jackson, hotel clerk, said Bradford registered about 5 o'clock Monday. Officers found $16 in currency and a watch in the room.

The body was removed to the mortuary of Harry G. Poole, where the inquest was held, and was taken last night to Fairfax for services and burial.

CONDITION OF VICTIM OF ACCIDENT IS "FAIR"

The condition of Millard Bagwell, 130 Claire drive, S. E., who was injured Monday afternoon when he is alleged to have "walked into the side of a street car" at Lakewood avenue and McDonough boulevard, was described as "fair" last night at Grady hospital.

Bagwell suffered a concussion of the brain. The car was being operated by Motorman T. S. Smith.

H. C. Bellah, 38, of Lee's Mill road, Clayton county, who was knocked down Monday afternoon by an auto said by police to have been driven by Mrs. W. D. Haslett, of East Lake, was dismissed from the hospital following treatment.

Mrs. Haslett told police that Bellah was crossing Peters street on a red light when her car struck him.

EX-SLAVES ASSOCIATION TO HELP AGED NEGROES

Funds are needed by the Ex-Slave Association to buy Christmas presents and the necessities of life for ex-slaves and aged negroes. Rev. B. R. Holmes, secretary and general manager, announced yesterday. Because ex-slaves are more in need of food and clothing than ever before, appeals for funds were made in many churches for negroes Sunday.

The association asks for clothing, blankets, shoes and food. Contributions may be made at 376 Bedford place, N. E., or by telephoning Jackson 9045. A representative will call for the gifts.

The twenty-first anniversary of the association will be celebrated Christmas Eve.

Milam Buys New Hat For Councilman Cuba

Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the city finance committee, is out one hat, and Councilman Max M. Cuba, tax committee chairman, who runs Milam's close second as council's best dressed man, will sport a new chapeau for Christmas.

During a heated discussion in Mayor Key's office yesterday over the city's contribution to local relief for 1936, Milam was smoking a cigaret. The air was stale and the cigaret got even more stale due to the insistent demands of members of the Atlanta and Fulton county board of public welfare for continuance of the $40,000 monthly appropriation by the city.

Milam, as is his custom, tossed the stale smoke toward an open window instead of into one of the large brass cuspidors in the executive offices. A breeze broke the force of the lighted smoke and it landed in the middle of the crown of Cuba's hat, which reposed in a window.

Cuba left the mayor's office armed with an order on a leading haberdashery for a new hat.

No definite agreement was reached on what the city will do next year on local relief, it was announced following the meeting.

SOUTHERN FARM HEADS PLEDGE AAA SUPPORT

Agricultural Leaders From Many States Attend Meet; Hear New Plan.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Agricultural leaders of the mid-south pledged Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, their support today in carrying out the new four-year cotton control program.

County farm agents and farm leaders from Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi and Missouri attended the two-day conference at which Cobb explained the new adjustment program.

Cobb and his committee left for Dallas, Texas, tonight for their next conference.

Cobb swept aside as inconsequential the fears that the adjustment program may hurt the export trade of the United States.

The conference revealed, Cobb said, that the leaders believe the new program is much better for the producer than the old.

"Establishment of new base period would," Cobb said, "will do much to help the producer get his just share of cotton. A system of appeals will be set up to assist in helping the farmer get what he is entitled to."

"After the state base acreage has been decided, 10 per cent will be added to take care of readjustments. A state allotment board, composed largely of farmers, will have charge of deciding what base period will be used."

The base period, he explained, will be compiled from records of 1928-32 and 1933, with the farmers receiving a flat five-cent bounty payment for cotton that would have been produced on acreage taken out of production.

The discussion apparently discouraged such a plan.

"The railways said the present scale in the south, in their opinion, was reasonable and that they had no intention of reducing it except to meet competition of trucks," Wilhoit said.

Chief spokesmen for the railroads in the conference were J. E. Tilford, chairman of the Southern Freight Association, Atlanta, and E. R. Oliver, vice president of the Southern railway, Washington.

They contended rates on agricultural and certain raw products for manufacture are lower in the south already than in "official territory."

Wilhoit said the southeastern organizations of shippers and utility companies will continue preparation of evidence later to be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission seeking an order for the rate reduction.

About 50 persons attended the conference yesterday in the state senate chamber. States represented in the shippers' commission's committee were Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and North and South Carolina.

Mrs. Annie A. Baird
LAID TO FINAL REST

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Abernethy Baird, wife of the late John B. Baird, first adjutant general of Georgia, and a member of a pioneer Georgia family, were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Spalding Speer, 66 West Twenty-eighth street, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Baird, a cousin of the noted Confederate officer, General John B. Gordon, was a native of Russell county, Alabama, and had lived until recently in Washington, D. C.

Palbearers were Samuel Stocking, Ralph Street, yesterday, with Dr. James R. Baird and Dr. Asa DeLoach. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

BONUS PAYMENT FIGHT CARRIED TO PRESIDENT

Democratic Leader Sees Passage of Bill; Unity of Forces Expected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The American Legion carried its demands for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus directly to the White House today but brought away no predictions of a softening of presidential opposition.

Increasing indications that major veterans' organizations were driving to solidify their strength behind a single bonus bill in the approaching congress coincidentally brought a forecast from a Democratic House leader that a cash payment bill would be shoved through, no matter what the presidential attitude.

Through unification, said Chairman O'Connor, democrat, New York, of the House rules committee, pressure for the bonus is likely to sweep it to passage over a veto. He said he thought the President, to be consistent, would have to veto the bonus again.

Asked about that possibility as he left the White House doorstep, Ray Murphy, national commander of the Legion, remarked:

"We are hoping to have a bonus bill become law. We are not even discussing a veto."

He had no comment to offer on his interview with the President, but did say the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars would reach agreement on bonus legislation, over which they clashed bitterly last session.

The bonus was part of a four-point Legion legislative program for which Murphy sought a presidential endorsement.

Fire Truck Jumps Curb, Plunges Into Embankment

This fire engine, from which two firemen were thrown and injured shortly before 6 o'clock last night, started a neighborhood when it plucked out of control, jumped the sidewalk and struck an embankment in front of 1541 South Gordon street. Fire Captain Elias C. Allen and Fireman Joe T. Lester were injured. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

2 FIREMEN HURT AS TRUCK CRASHES

Pumper Fails To Take Curve, Plunges Into Embankment.

Fire Captain Elias C. Allen and Fireman Joe T. Lester were injured shortly before 6 o'clock last night when the pumper fire truck on which they were responding to a fire plucked out of control across a sidewalk and plunged into a deep embankment in front of 1541 South Gordon street.

Allen and Lester were thrown from the truck. The driver, Buddy Hammond, reported he was blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile and did not realize he had swerved from the street until the heavy pumper jolted across the sidewalk.

The wagon was from Station No. 17 and was answering a call sent in from a box at 1517 South Gordon street.

Captain Allen and Lester were taken to Grady hospital where they were treated for minor injuries and then dismissed. The truck was only slightly damaged. No damage was done to the residence, which is occupied by Mrs. J. O. Underwood.

JAPANESE RAIN BOMBS ON CHINESE PROVINCE

up garrison duty in Tientsin after the Japanese had consented to their entry.

Sporadic fighting between Chinese "peace preservation" troops and Manchurian contingents continued in Chahar and the edges of Mongolia.

The student union, representing most universities in North China, adopted a resolution calling for the strike. The students also voted to continue a student walkout and mass demonstrations in an effort to organize the nation for patriotic action.

The new northern government strengthened its hold on Tientsin today with the arrival of troops of General Sung Shun-Yuan to replace the garrison of the anti-autonomist, Governor Shang Chen, who is resigning.

A detachment of Sung's troops left for Tangku, eastern Hopei, but whether soldiers there would permit its entry without action was uncertain.

A new autonomous administration in Tangku has indicated its plans to attempt to expand its boundaries even further.

One person was killed today when a bomb exploded in a home next to the official residence of Major General Haruo Tada, commander of Japan's North China garrison.

The house was owned by Liu Kwei-Tang, an irregular leader with Japanese sympathies, who was away at the time.

At least 100 Chinese students were injured when police used force to disperse demonstrations yesterday and many of them were said to be missing.

CLASH IS THREATENED ON MONGOLIAN BORDER

MOSCOW, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A warning that a clash may be expected along the outer Mongolian border was issued through official Soviet news channels tonight while the Mongolian War Minister denied it conferred here with bolshevik officials.

The official Tass news agency, in a dispatch from Khabarovsk, in eastern Siberia, said it had information from a reliable source that provocative measures were being planned and may lead to a serious incident in the near future.

The dispatch accused the Japanese army in Kwangtung, a far eastern territory leased by Japan, of plotting trouble.

It said the Japanese military leaders, disgruntled at Mongolia's rejection of demands for recognition of Manchukuo, were determined to keep friction alive.

Sentenced in Robbery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—James Hampton Little, 46, of Pine Bluff, N. C., was sentenced to 12 to 25 years in Sing Sing prison today on a charge of having robbed a ticket office in Grand Central terminal of $11,964 on September 8, 1934.

Laval Gains New Confidence Vote in Defense of Franco-British Plan

Chamber of Deputies Gives Premier "Blank Check" To Defend Proposals at League Meet; Italian Ambassador Reported To Have Demanded Changes in Program.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Laval won from the chamber of deputies today an expression of confidence and which enabled him to settle the Italo-Ethiopian war.

He dared the chamber to cast out his government, and by a vote of 306 to 252, was given what his enemies called a "blank check" to defend the peace proposals at the meeting of the League of Nations council tomorrow.

The deputies voted on Laval's demand that the council should not discuss the government on the Italo-Ethiopian situation be deferred until December 27, and Laval won over the socialists' proposals that it be held December 20.

Laval declared he and S. C. Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, in formulating their plan, had sought to prevent a European war growing out of the proposed oil embargo against Italy.

Not Only Avenue.

Assailing critics of the Franco-British formula, which is understood to involve transfer of much of Ethiopia to Italy and which Ethiopia has denounced as giving Premier Mussolini benefits from aggression, Laval told the deputies:

"Sanctions do not constitute the only method of stopping hostilities."

"It is equally in conformity with the latter and spirit of the League covenant to seek, as rapidly as possible, the friendly settlement, a peaceful solution."

"When sanctions arose, and even before hostilities started, we agreed with the British government not to apply any military sanction and not to adopt any measure which could lead to a naval blockade."

"In a word, we avoided everything which would provoke an extension of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict into Europe."

He called the Franco-British plan "a last effort at peaceful settlement."

Laval declared that he and Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, in formulating their plan, had sought to prevent a European war growing out of the proposed oil embargo against Italy.

Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti was understood, diplomatic sources said, to have already presented to the League of Nations a plan of settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict which would involve giving Italy more territory in Ethiopia than the Hoare-Laval formula mentioned and increasing Italy's authority in the area to be given.

Defending himself against charges that he and Hoare operated outside the League, Laval pointed out that the two nations had not yet agreed on a plan of settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

"It is in agreement with the League and for the League that we have made our suggestions were to be imposed either on the parties to the dispute or on the other member states of the League."

"It is up to Geneva and others to do what they see fit."

RAIDERS WILL SEEK VOICE OF CONFIDENCE

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, rallying his nearly demoralized ranks after a hard-fought battle in the House of Commons, today declared that he was confident of the support of the House of Commons in his efforts to restore the government.

With the first of his speech, Baldwin took charge of restoring the government order in a manner which left diplomatic quarters no doubt as to the final outcome.

On the surface, victory was assured Baldwin because of his topheavy conservative majority. Observers believe, however, that the deepening bitterness and distrust caused by the sudden peace move will remain to embarras the government in the future.

Labors' action in deciding to cast a vote of censure Thursday gave Baldwin the opportunity he is availing. He will seize the opportunity by backing up the demand for a vote of confidence with the most important speeches of his career.

Hoare to Participate.

Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, will open debate for the government and Baldwin will close it.

The cabinet met today in Sir Samuel's drawing room to map its plans. Anthony Eden, minister for League affairs, departed for Geneva with instructions to demand a vote of confidence.

RETREAT OF FASCIST IS ADMITTED IN ITALY

Many Italian Soldiers Are Killed as Ethiopians Are Victorious.

ROME, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A terse government communiqué told the Italian nation today of the first admitted retreat of fascist soldiers invading Ethiopia and tonight anxious groups waited for details of a battle which did not come.

Scores were killed and wounded in the north, where a general battle has long been anticipated.

Another fight was in progress at the time the government issued the communiqué, with airplanes and tanks pressed into service. Crowds gathered before radios in restaurants and bars, hoping for details which were lacking.

This reverse in Africa put the Italians in a sober and determined mood on the eve of "faith day" tomorrow, when women will give their wedding rings to the government to aid in the fight against sanctions.

"We will show them," was a frequent expression, and by "them" the fascists meant sanction nations as well as the Ethiopians.

A force of 3,000 Ethiopian warriors attacked an advance Italian post on the Takaze river. Four Italian officers were killed and three wounded, nine Italian soldiers were killed and several dozen Eritrean allies of the Italians were wounded.

"The enemy maneuver resulted in a battle that now is in progress and in which, on our side, air forces and detachments of tanks are taking an active part."

"In the first engagement, four officers and nine national soldiers were killed and three officers were wounded."

"The losses among the Eritreans were several dozen dead and wounded. The enemy losses are not determined, but they were considerable."

Italy was killed and wounded. Ethiopian losses were said to be "considerable."

The communiqué said: "Notable enemy forces estimated at 3,000 armed men attacked our advance observation posts on the Takaze river near the ford of Mai Timcheh. Four Eritrean troops, after having put up a bitter resistance, withdrew to Demguina pass."

"At the same time, another group of Ethiopian warriors crossed the river valley, making a flanking movement in the region of Seire, the population of which has submitted to us."

SMALL TOWN GIRL

BY BEN AMES WILLIAMS

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE: Kay Brannon, the younger of two sisters, lives at home in Carvel, a small town in New Hampshire. She anxiously awaits the graduation of her sister Emily, from college in order that she, herself, may be able to go the next year and thus escape the monotony of small town life. Kay is terrified at the thought that even her sister should waste her future in such a small town following graduation. Kay and her father should receive a letter from Emily in which she tells of having met a Dane Ripley. They suspect that Emily is in love with Dane inasmuch as she has invited him to visit them during the coming summer. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IX.

Emily had smiling questions afterward; but Kay shook her head. "Nothing to tell," she insisted. "I like him, and he likes me, and we both enjoy being together. But that's absolutely all!"

"It was nice of him to come out of his way to see you," Emily remarked; and Kay said quickly, as though she suspected the wistful thought behind the other's words: "But he didn't have to come all the way from Paris, Emily!" The older girl laughed fondly at Kay's reassurances.

Their summer was quiet. Ned Pastor was gone to Manchester to a position of larger responsibility; but he drove up almost every week on business, and never failed to stop at the house, and between-times he wrote occasionally. Yet Kay saw with a sort of pity that already Emily spoke of him in the past tense.

"We had a lot of good times together, he and I," she said. "But of course I knew he was too able a man to stay here in Carvel very long." There was something rueful in her tones.

Kay thought her sister seemed tired. "Teaching all winter must have worn Emily out," she told Mrs. Brannon. "She looks—older, Mother!" There was a deep distress in her tones. "I saw her with Lillian today, and they almost look alike. Mother, she mustn't stay here and just get dusty and worn and old!"

Mrs. Brannon smiled faintly. "People do grow older, Kay," she reminded the girl. "And—not so quickly in Carvel as in other places, perhaps." She added, "But I don't think Emily will teach school long."

Kay looked at her sharply. "Mother, what do you mean?" "She isn't the stuff spinsters are made of, Kay."

"But—who, Mother?" Kay demanded. "Ned Pastor?" She doesn't speak of him as though..."

"They were good friends," Mrs. Brannon agreed. "But I was thinking of George?"

Kay cried mirthfully: "George? Mother, don't be silly!" And she laughed aloud.

Yet when she returned to college in the fall, this possibility that Emily, whom she adored, might marry George lurked always in the back of her mind like an ominous cloud. She forgot it for weeks on end, in the pressure of her work, of her widening activities, of her occasional contacts with Chick Rantoul and others; but always it was likely to return to perturb her. Once when she was with Chick, he had been discussing an advertising campaign which at the moment engrossed him. He was puzzled as to how to treat the subject; and Kay made a suggestion which appalled him so strongly that he cried:

"Say, there might be something in that!" He was a moment silent; then: "I think you've hit something! Kay, you've got an idea!" And abruptly he slapped his fist into his palm. "I can work out something along that line," he declared. "You know, you rate a commission for that young woman. A bonus!"

"People can't get bonuses," she reminded him, "unless they're on the payroll. A bonus is something extra, isn't it; something besides what's due."

"If you can knock the ball over the fence like that, once in a while, I'd like to have you on my payroll," he assured her. "If you're ever looking for a job..."

And at that word her thoughts whirled back, as they were apt to do to Emily and George. "Do you hire people?" she asked. "I was thinking of Emily. I wish she could find some work in Boston, or near me, and away from Carvel."

"Doesn't she like it there?" he asked. "It struck me as a fine little town."

Kay shook her head. "Carvel's nice, yes. But—well, I think Emily would rather work in Boston."

He nodded absently, his thoughts returning to his problem again. They discussed it long together; and by that discussion which acted as a stimulant upon them both arrived at a complete design. When he said goodbye to her, it was triumphantly; and he told her again:

"You and I would make a team! If you're ever looking for a job, Kay, come and see me. I can use you..."

She said uncertainly: "Emily..."

But he ignored the word. "I'll keep a job on the book for you," he repeated. "Any time at all!"

Her sophomore year passed for Kay swiftly. She was too busy to take stock, too busy to appraise and assay. She did her work adequately; she joined a sorority; she had a part in theatricals and made a surprising success of it; she saw Chick Rantoul twice or thrice a month till he declared one day that he had a tough assignment it was only necessary for him to come talk it over with her in order that his difficulties should be all resolved.

She went to one week-end party, at Sally Hays' urgency, and was kissed in an awkward and bungling fashion by a boy named Murfin, and laughed at him in a deep amusement, so that she stalked angrily away with his sunken head high. She almost met Bob Dakin at that party. He was expected, and Sally had assured Kay that she would be wild about him; but he did not come. He sent no word of explanation to their hostess; and Kay asked Sally afterward:

"Is he always so rude?"

III—Yuletide Fires.

There is something about an open fireplace with burning, crackling wood which makes people (at least many people) cheerful. I enjoy that kind of a fire. After sitting beside it a while, I am likely to feel dreamy or drowsy, or both—but it's rather pleasant to feel that way sometimes, don't you think so?

In the long, long period before quick-heating stoves and even-heating furnaces came into wide use, people had to depend largely on the open fireplace for warmth. In the olden days, some homes had fireplaces six or eight feet wide, or even wider.

Picture in your mind a winter in the Northland long ago, and you say in the Norway-Sweden-Denmark region. There the winter days are even longer period of feasting during the Yuletide, and for their use of the Yule log.

"Yuletide" refers more to a season than the single day of Christmas. Among the Norsemen, among the Anglo-Saxons who settled in England, the name "Yule" or "Jul" was given to both December and January. The olden Norsemen had a feasting period which lasted 12 days, and which started after the shortest day of the year. In burning the Yule log, they made merry over the ending of the Christmas and shorter days, and the beginning of longer days.

The Yule log custom was widespread in Europe in former times. At present it has passed away in most parts, though traces of it are found here and there. In some places in Serbia, for example, it is an old custom to burn a Yule log of Christmas log. If there is a guest in the home, he is likely to be handed a spade or shovel to strike the log a blow and make the sparks fly.

In former times the English made much ado about the Yule log, or "Christmas block," as it was called sometimes. There was singing and laughter, as it was brought in, and an effort was made to keep the fire burning or smoldering for 12 days. If a bright fire was wanted, bellows were used to make the smoldering wood burst into flames again.

Some families in Great Britain kept chips from their Yule log to use in kindling fire for the following Christmas.

KEY SAYS TALMADGE WILL GET 'HIS ANSWER'

New York, backed by a bunch of Wall Street plutocrats, to give "Georgia's answer to the President." When did we get to answering Mr. Roosevelt?

This Jackson day celebration in Georgia is going to be Georgia's answer to Talmadge, never you fear. It is going to thunder around the country in such force that it will be unmistakable. All Simon-pure democrats believe in the President.

It was decided that dinners will be held in key cities of various districts and that "old-time democratic rallies" will be staged at the courthouse in various rural counties. Decisions will be left to district chairmen to make local arrangements.

"No Time for Pussfooting."

"This is no time for pussfooting," Scott yelled. "Democrats of Georgia are going to get a good opportunity to classify themselves. Good democrats are going to throw down the gauntlet of good citizenship. They mean business. Democracy, pure and undefiled, will range through the state from the mountains to the sea."

"If supporting President Roosevelt against Governor Talmadge means my defeat, I am a defeated man right now," Dean told those assembled. "Mr. Roosevelt is the greatest humanitarian who has occupied the White House since Andrew Jackson was there, 101 years ago. Why, enactment of the insuring of bank deposits did more for the working people than all the administrations of Coolidge, Harding and Hoover combined."

"Talmadge misquoted the social security act and did it willfully to 120,000,000 American people."

"About To Be Betrayed."

"Anyone who fights Mr. Roosevelt is fighting the democratic party," Rivers said. "If we can't win with him, we can't win at all. We are about to be betrayed, and will be if we sit idly by."

Mayor J. A. Besley, of Crawfordville, demanded ouster of the pro-sect democratic committee, in another attack.

"Little, ignorant, selfish, narrow-minded, peanut men are criticizing our great President," Howard said. "Talmadge is a nit-wit. Georgia democracy should be reorganized. I know what goes on in Washington. Agents of capitalist cars are busy there and they are financing an attack on Mr. Roosevelt.

"All farmers or a laborer has to do is to feel the money in his pocket now and remember how empty it was about three years ago to see whether Mr. Roosevelt or Talmadge is his friend."

"Why his filthy, low-down, infernal effort to stir up racial prejudice has now come to the front. He stops at nothing."

Talmadge "Disregards" Constitution.

"He criticizes Mr. Roosevelt, saying the President violated the constitution, when he plans to attempt to administer the state without a state appropriations bill in direct contravention of the state constitution. He not only has violated the Georgia constitution, he has disregarded it. He plans to parade Lindley Camp through the state to force the people to pay up too."

"If Talmadge is a democrat, I'm a monkey's uncle," Lindsay asserted. "I wouldn't trust him as far as I can throw this hotel."

Tiller hit a "pack of lies of the worst type," and asserted "Talmadge has no regard for the truth."

Mrs. Boyd Quarles, head of the women's division of the Georgia Roosevelt clubs, told those present the women are hard at work on an educational campaign. Mrs. Charles Nixon, of the American Legion auxiliary; Mrs. Tom Sanders and Mrs. Ben Purse, of the Friends of Roosevelt clubs, were presented.

District chairmen are: Jim Gillis, Soperton, first; Henry McIntosh, Albany, second; R. W. Page, Columbus, third; W. Y. Atkinson, Newnan, fourth; Trammell Scott, Atlanta, fifth; W. H. Lovett, Dublin, sixth; V. C. Pickering, Chatsworth, seventh; M. M. Belote, Valdosta, eighth; Hugh A. Carithers, Winder, ninth; Hamilton McWhorter, Lexington, tenth.

WIFE OF EINSTEIN IS SERIOUSLY ILL

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Albert Einstein, wife of the eminent German scientist, was taken to Montefiore hospital from her home in Princeton, N. J., today suffering from heart enlargement. Her condition was said to be serious.

Dr. Einstein accompanied his wife to the hospital. She had been ill for some time and it was decided to transfer her to the hospital after her condition became alarming.

Mrs. Einstein is about 62. She came here with her husband on October 17, 1933, after the scientist became a voluntary exile from Germany.

Dr. L. Lichwitz, the German-Jewish heart specialist also exiled from Germany, was attending her.

Memorial Plaque to Prominent Atlantan Is Unveiled

TALMADGE REBELLION IS TERMED 'PHONY'

years ago helped raise a slush fund of $800,000. A senate lobby committee tried diligently, but failed to find that the Arnold-Kirby team ever did much of anything to earn the money.

The lobby committee referred to by the editorial was the famous Caraway committee, headed by the late Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, who scathingly denounced the Arnold-Kirby group for its collection of vast sums of money in lobbying enterprises. It may be safely said that there is not the slightest connection between the administration political strategists over the ability of President Roosevelt to command 100 per cent support in the south for re-nomination. This applies to Louisiana no less than Georgia and Texas. Even the followers of the late Senator Huey Long are now in line and a Roosevelt delegation will be sent to the convention from the former Kingfish's state without a ripple of opposition.

Should Governor Talmadge follow the suggested course of seeking to have the state decide the issue, he would send an unqualified delegation to the national convention as a means of avoiding a preferential primary party election already have plans mapped out for calling democratic mass meetings in the individual counties for organizing the machinery preliminary to a contested election.

And there isn't the slightest doubt in the world as to which of the two contesting Georgia delegations would be seated. The group of hand-picked Talmadge delegates disguised as unitary would never get on the convention floor. This is a 100-to-1 bet that would be stealing even at those odds.

Governor Talmadge and Oil Man Kirby are merely shouting their own hats. Every informed Washington observer knows they haven't any more chance than a three-legged cat entered in the Kentucky Derby against Discovery. It is doubtful if they are so ill-informed as to believe otherwise themselves.

Neither have the republicans any false illusions about the matter. They know that a Roosevelt renomination is a certainty. Never in any responsible republican quarter has so much as a whispered suggestion been heard on the possibility of defeating him for the nomination, much as they would like to see this accomplished.

What they do recognize in the Talmadge-Kirby program, however, is a certain nuisance value to the G. O. P. It will enable them to point to New Deal criticism originating within the democratic party as fortifying them in the sustained attacks which may be expected on Mr. Roosevelt from now until the day of the election next November.

The Governor and his oily angel, Mr. Kirby, may be assured of the warmest republican co-operation in making the rump convulse carry some semblance of success. This end, whether by design or accident, a former director of publicity of the republican national committee has been re-

Rainey Lays Overflowing Prisons To General Let Down in Morals

A general moral let down, it was blamed yesterday by Chairman E. L. Rainey, of the state prison commission, for the increase of state prisoners to the largest number in Georgia history.

Chairman Rainey, who has served on the prison commission for 20 years and as its chairman for eight, said Georgia has about 8,000 state prisoners today. More than 1,000 of them, he said, are confined at the state prison farm, planned for less than half the number.

"When I came here we had only about 320 prisoners in the state farm," he said. "Now we have more than that many more alone there. The last report showed 1,000 prisoners on the farm. It's the greatest number the state ever had."

He could suggest no other, remedy to overcrowding than "just do the best we can."

Reasons for growing prison population, he said, are varied. "There has been a general moral letdown," he commented. "Most of the new ones who come in are young, and there have been more convictions. Petty crime has increased. There have been more prison sentences given for misdemeanors. And then for some time the people haven't been so well able to pay their fines, and took prison terms instead."

Chairman Rainey advocates a stern policy on Christmas pardons. "A man who doesn't deserve to be let out of prison doesn't deserve any more on Christmas than any other time," he said. "We don't make any recommendations for Christmas pardons other than the regular ones that happen to come along at that time."

PATROLMAN INDICTED IN SHOOTING OF HUNT

Patrolman Vining Charged With Murder; 9 Named in Liquor Raid.

Patrolman J. H. Vining, who shot Robert Dantell Hunt on November 24, was indicted for murder yesterday by the Fulton grand jury, which also hit bootlegging and lottery operators in other bills.

The policeman has been held under bond since a coroner's jury charged him with involuntary manslaughter in the commission of an unjustified act. The grand jurors, after several days of study on the case, changed the charge to murder.

Hunt, a youth, was fatally wounded on the night of November 24 in the rear of a house at 515 Venable street. He sought to escape from Vining and his partner, Patrolman W. M. Richards. Vining contended the youth was stealing an automobile and that he shot to frighten the boy after Hunt had struck him on the chin. In a deathbed statement, Hunt denied he stole a car and said the officer shot him when he stumbled into a fence.

Nine persons were indicted for possessing 1,042 pounds of whisky and 15 quarts of gin which was confiscated by county police Saturday in an underground basement under Lucky's Buffet, at North avenue and Peachtree street.

Named in the true bill were H. L. Cobb, said to be the owner of the place, Johann Hall, William Heisen, James Boyd, Charles Nunnally, John Jones, Frank Jones, Willie Jones and John Hall.

It was charged that liquor was kept in the sub-basement and passed up to the buffet on a long stick through a pipe to the main floor. A negro stayed in the liquor cache for days at a time without coming out, sleeping and eating in the lower basement, it was said. A ton of coal concealed the trap door entrance.

New Lottery System.

Grand jurors claimed a new system of picking up lottery bets had been devised by lottery operators here. Pretty young white girls were being used to collect the bets on the numbers, they said.

Two "extremely pretty" young women, named as Margaret Power and Lucile Sobel, alias Lucile Gundy, were indicted yesterday, along with seven negroes who, police said, were "writers" for the "bug" racket.

Members of the lottery squad of the solicitor-general's office said the two white girls were arrested in an apartment on North Boulevard and that a quantity of lottery paraphernalia was found in their possession.

Usually men, nearly always white, pick up lottery bets from writers, it was said.

Alleged Burglar Indicted.

A series of burglaries were believed cleared up with the indictment yesterday of S. B. Reynolds, negro, who is under arrest.

Reynolds was named in four true bills charging burglary of the residences of W. M. Thomas, 1000 Eleventh street, N. E.; Mrs. J. W. Casteen and I. B. Lheureux, both of 653 Bonaventure avenue, N. E.; Clyde Berry, of 443 Ponce de Leon avenue, and E. E. Beal, of 57 Lafayette drive, N. E. Indicted with him were L. Walker, Leroy Howard and James Gresham, negroes, each named in a different burglary. Reynolds was accused alone in one case.

Negro Ordered Held.

Frank Leonard, negro, was ordered held under bond of $10,000 by the grand jury after it had indicted him for assault with intent to murder T. M. Kemer, College Park grocer.

Kemer was wounded by a negro held up many several days ago and Leonard was arrested near by officers as he boarded a street car. Owing to the precarious condition of the grocer, the grand jurors fixed the $10,000 bond for the negro.

Charged with stealing $80 worth of golf clubs from Dr. M. T. Edgerton, 788 Peachtree avenue, Clarence Danks, negro, was named in a true bill for larceny from an automobile. Officers said Danks broke into the doctor's car on November 23.

4-YEAR TERM IS METED IN LURE-SLUG ROBBERY

Emmett Smith was found guilty of aiding in the robbery of Julius M. Beal, of Reynolds, Ga., and was sentenced to serve from four to seven years' imprisonment yesterday by Judge James C. Davis in Fulton superior court.

Anne Bishop, white woman, was put on trial for the same offense a few minutes after Smith was sentenced. The woman and Smith were jointly indicted with Eldon Bradley, who was found guilty and sentenced to serve 15 to 20 years on the chain gang.

Witnesses testified that Anne Bishop lured Beal from a Marietta street cafe to an alley where Smith and Bradley slugged him and escaped with $50 in cash and two checks for $125 each. Beal managed to hold the girl and the two men were captured by city police. The money was recovered.

F. M. AKERS FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Last rites for F. M. Akers Sr., pioneer Georgia insurance executive and member of a widely-known Georgia family, will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son with Dr. William M. Elliott Jr., officiating.

Palbearers will be Marvin McDonald, S. B. Burroughs, W. M. Jackson, Dr. R. L. Dement, Jack Wooding and S. E. Boykin.

Mr. Akers was manager for 30 years of the Georgia branch of the Prudential Insurance Company of America. He had been associated with the company since the first offices were opened here 37 years ago.

Mr. Akers was a member of the Atlanta Old Guard and came to the city shortly after the War Between the States, contributing much to the rebuilding and progress of Atlanta.

Burial will be in West View cemetery.

STORE SALES SHOW GAIN IN DECEMBER

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—A 9.5 per cent increase in department store sales for the first 12 shopping days of December as compared to the same period in 1934 was reported today in a survey by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

If the pace is maintained, Manager Channing E. Switzer, of the association, said, retail business will approximate $4,500,000,000 for the month, the highest total since 1930.

The survey took in every section of the country, Switzer said.

Fire Insurance Premium Reduction Is Predicted in C. of C. Report

$3,000,000 Annually Paid for Protection; Prevention Committee Outlines Activities Designed To Save Property Losses; New Headquarters Is Recommended.

A reduction in fire insurance premiums for Atlantans, who now pay about $3,000,000 annually in premiums, and an annual saving of $500,000 in material losses, was predicted yesterday by S. C. Noland, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, provided the city continues its present fire prevention program.

Noland submitted the report to Wiley L. Moore, retiring president of the chamber, at a meeting of committee members. Atlanta's fire loss per capita, until yesterday, was $3 cents, which is slightly higher than last year's figure of 68 cents, but appreciably lower than the per capita loss of $2.48 in 1931. Last year's figure of 68 cents was the lowest per capita loss in 31 years.

To reduce insurance premiums and to save on property losses, Atlantans are urged in the report to keep equipment and personnel of the fire department up to standard and to keep the city free of preventable risks.

Committee Work Outlined.

Work of the committee itself to prevent fires was outlined in the annual report, the work including the inauguration of educational programs in schools; the sponsoring of national fire prevention week, of fire prevention and cleanup week, of a school for night watchmen and janitors, and the efforts taken to keep property free of inflammable debris.

The report reveals that 472, or 14 per cent, of all alarms coming to the fire department in 1934 were false. The committee sponsored legislation which makes the turning in of a false alarm punishable by law.

Pointing out that the present fire department headquarters is in a non-fireproof building, 44 years old, the committee said it recommended that work be continued for the construction of a fireproof headquarters. The board of firemasters already has been authorized by the mayor and general council to proceed with plans, the report pointed out.

Code violations in construction work are rare, the report pointed out, saying that in recent years the building inspector has operated free of councilmanic interference.

Work of schools in spreading knowledge of fire prevention was cited by the report. Schools, studying fire statistics, ordinances, and means of prevention in books, movies and lectures provided by the committee, were given honorable mention in a bulletin of the National Fire Protection Association.

Moore praised the work of the committee at the meeting yesterday. W. R. Ulrich, secretary of the chamber, cited it as the "best standing committee" of that organization. Charles A. Bickertstaff, named Monday to the board of directors, spoke in behalf of Eugene Harrington, newly elected president, who was unable to attend.

Members of the fire prevention committee are Noland, Frank K. Shaw, secretary; Charles J. Bowen, T. W. Clift, T. P. Flieger, Edward G. Hitt, W. R. Johnson, Wiley L. Moore, Harry Phillips, Walter M. Sutton, Irwin Wooten, H. N. Fre, H. J. Cates, Lee D. Davis, Dewey Johnson, F. E. McKnight, O. J. Parker, A. G. Stanford, R. W. Torras and George Wurzberg.

Lovely Sarah McCray, of Indiana, Will Attend Nine O'Clocks' Ball

By Sally Forth.

LISTED among the important holiday visitors will be Mrs. E. E. McCray and Sarah McCray, of Kendallville, Ind. They arrive shortly after Christmas Day to visit Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller at the Biltmore apartments on Fifth street. Sarah is the pretty young girl who is such a general favorite in society, and will time her visit here to attend the Nine O'Clocks' fancy dress ball on New Year's Eve at the Piedmont Driving Club. Sarah is a belle in her home town and social affairs in Kendallville will claim her until after December 25.

Sarah is already turning her attention to planning the attractive costume in which she will masquerade at the interesting function, and you may count upon it being an original and prize-taking creation. Her beauty combines brown eyes and brown hair with faultless complexion and comelike features. Aside from her loveliness, Sarah is noted for her charm and graciousness, the chicness of her clothes, and the modish manner in which she wears her habiliments.

Mrs. McCray, a former Atlanta, is a sister of Mrs. Miller and always receives cordial welcome from her legion of girlhood friends whenever she comes here. She is the former Miss Lena Orr, and has resided in Kendallville ever since her marriage.

SALLY hears about so many attractive girls who are getting married in Atlanta, that it's rather difficult for her to realize that out-of-town girls are getting married, too. Scott Meador leaves the latter part of the Christmas holidays to be an attendant in the marriage of Gertrude Williams, of Chattanooga, to Marion Gaston, of Toccoa, for she is, to a large extent, responsible for this approaching event. Scott and Gertrude became friends several years ago when they were in the same party touring European capitals. So, naturally, when Marion, who had walked off with practically every available honor at the University of Georgia, told Scott that he was to spend the summer at Fort Oglethorpe, near Chattanooga, she told him to be sure to look up Gertrude, and even wrote a letter to introduce them.

That was three years ago. Since that time, Scott has watched with interest the growth of their mutual admiration for each other. Gertrude is the elder daughter of Judge and Mrs. Joseph Vincent Williams, and has often visited in Atlanta, where she has a host of friends. She is a mem-

Miss Anne Woodruff, attractive schoolgirl daughter of Mrs. L. W. Woodruff, who will be one of the most popular and admired figures attending the holiday gayeties assembling the younger set. Miss Woodruff is a member of the junior class at Washington Seminary and belongs to the Pi Kappa Club and the Phi Pi sorority. She will act as one of the gracious hostesses at the formal dance to be given by the Phi Pi sorority on January 3. Photograph by Asano, Japanese photographer.

ber of the Chattanooga Junior League, Girl's Cotillion Club, Woman's Press Club, and Chickamauga Chapter, D. A. R.

Marion is also a popular visitor here, and while in school he was a member of the X Club and Blue Key Council, and president of the Sphinx Club. He has the rank of major in the R. O. T. C., and is a member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

SALLY has been hearing thrilling and interesting reports of the oyster supper given on Sunday evening by Martha de Gollan. In the first place, the entire affair was unusual and different from the very beginning, with the highlight of the evening coming in the form of an engagement announcement which more or less turned it into a betrothal party, although complimenting pretty Eleanor Spalding and her guest, Mary Clay, of Paris, Ky.

The party, you know, was an al fresco event, and oysters never tasted better than Sunday evening when they were served around a blazing and cheery bonfire. And then when the fun was at its height, the announcement was made. One of the guests, a handsome young man, explained that Dan Cupid was amongst them and that his two victims were also there and that they were numbered among most popular members of the younger set. Excitement was running at a high pitch by that time and guesses and speculation as to the identity of the couple were on all lips. Soon, however, the secret was out and one of the most charming and popular members of society displayed her exquisite ring. With her fiancé, they were the cynosure of all eyes and the recipients of countless good wishes and congratulations.

The wedding is scheduled for April following the return of the bride-elect from Florida, where she will spend some time after Christmas. Her future husband has been one of the popular bachelors of Atlanta since he left school. He and his bride will reside here, where the former is identified with his father in one of Atlanta's leading business concerns.

But back to Martha's oyster supper. The home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Gollan, on Howell Mill road, is beautifully situated amid a natural and picturesque wooded area. Giant trees line the pathway leading to the outdoor kitchen, and on their trunks were painted colorful figures of soldiers who pointed the way in snappy, military fashion.

Psi Sigma Sorority Plans Xmas Party.

The Psi Sigma sorority will entertain at Christmas party at the home of Miss Lou McMullan on St. Charles avenue, Thursday evening. Members of the sorority and their dates will attend.

Officers of the sorority are Miss Graeme Strauss, president; Miss Janice Wise, vice president; Miss Hilda Reed, recording secretary; Miss Martha Gurley, corresponding secretary; Miss Kathryn Welsh, treasurer. Membership includes Misses Anne Babington, Audrey Jacoby, Frances Lowe, Lou McMullan, Florence Modena, Margaret Pate, Eleanor Werner and Mesdames F. Neville Everett, Thornton Wallis and Wayland Winslow.

Miss Anne Moseley Plans Open House.

Miss Anne Moseley has issued invitations to 15 friends to attend an open house on Christmas Eve from 9 to 11 o'clock at her home at 1785 Boulevard, N. E. The charming hostess is a member of the freshman class at Oglethorpe University, and belongs to the Kappa Delta Sorority. Her guests will include active members and pledges of the Kappa Delta Sorority and intimate friends. Miss Moseley will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. L. A. Moseley, her mother. She is among the most popular and attractive members of the college set of society.

Dogwood Campaign Is Pledged Support By Lithonia Club

LITHONIA, Ga., Dec. 17.—Every member of the Lithonia Garden Club pledged herself to help in the dogwood campaign by planting at least one dogwood tree this winter, either on private or public property. This action was taken at the meeting held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. W. Ward, president.

Mrs. L. M. Starr and Mrs. Broadus Marchant gave information on plantings and arrangements, and Mrs. Nelson Severinghaus presented a discussion of herbs and herb gardens. Mrs. C. J. Tucker gave an illuminating talk on the origin of the Christmas tree and the use of Christmas greens.

Mrs. Ward announced that the garden club would sponsor a lighted tree campaign. Prizes will be given for the prettiest trees and for the most attractively decorated doorways. Judges will be Miss Hattie Poole, society editor of Lithonia Journal; Mrs. Maggie Wilson, Rev. D. T. Bunce, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Carl Stanley, pastor of the First Methodist church.

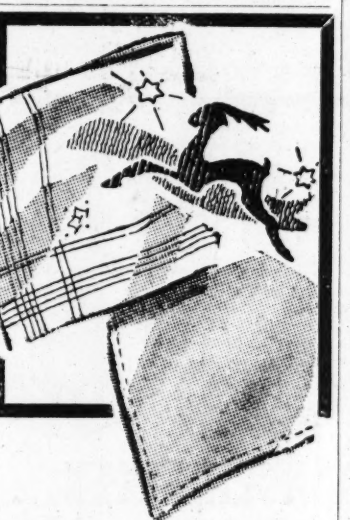

Additional Parties To Honor Debutantes

The Christmas social calendar continues to be marked by a series of delightful parties planned to honor popular members of the debutante coterie. On Saturday, Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell gives a breakfast at the Atlanta Athletic Club complimenting Miss Rebecca Young.

Sharing honors on this occasion will be the latter's sister, Miss Frances Young, who returns on Saturday from Hollins Institute to spend the holidays here with her parents, and also Miss Caroline Furniss, of Selma, Ala. Co-eds will be placed for the Misses Young, Caroline Furniss, Sybilla Pringle, Jean Walker, Dorothea Blackshear and Mesdames H. Lane Young, W. Earl Quillian and Alva G. Maxwell.

Miss Marjorie Carmichael, another fete debutante, will be central figure tomorrow at the bridge to be given by Mrs. William McIntosh Fambrough at her home on Hudson drive. On Friday, January 3, Mrs. Anita Stewart Armstrong entertains at a buffet supper at her home on West Peachtree in compliment to Miss Eleanor Spalding, debutante. Sharing honors at this time will be Miss Anita Stewart Champion, of Albany, niece of the hostess, and Miss Caro Roberts, of Utica, N. Y. The latter will be an attendant in the marriage of Miss Louise Richardson and Ivan Allen Jr., on January 1, and will visit Miss Caroline Selden, who also have as her guest Miss Champion.

Miss Eleanor Spalding, Judy Beers and Margaret Holcomb, a trio of popular debutantes, were central figures yesterday at the luncheon given by Miss Clara Haverly at her home on Cherokee road. Sharing honors was Miss Anne Alston, lovely bride-elect of Wednesday afternoon. In the dining room a large central table was laid for the honor guests, around which were placed individual tables for the other guests. Decorations for these consisted of red roses and white narcissi, held in crystal bowls. Mrs. Clarence Haverly assisted in entertaining the guests, who included members of Miss Alston's wedding party and a group of the debutantes.

Miss Lyle Presented to Society At Druid Hills Golf Club Dance

Miss Frances Lyle, a popular member of the debutante coterie, was formally presented to society at a brilliant dance at the Druid Hills Golf Club given in her honor by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyle, last evening.

The decorations in the ballroom of the club featured a canopy of smilax suspended over the dance floor with varicolored balloons suspended by ribbons, and giving a colorful and novel effect. The mirrors around the room were outlined with smilax, and the orchestra played from a setting of palms and foliage plants. The "iconies and reception rooms of the club were decorated with a profusion of smilax with poinsettia interspersed, and the serving table was artistically arranged with mounds of poinsettia and smilax. Silver coffee urns were placed at the ends of the long table. The receiving line was formed at the entrance to the dining room before a background of palms and lovely complementary flowers.

Receiving with the hosts were Miss Lyle and her guest, Miss Betty Beeler, of Knoxville, Tenn., who Miss Lyle has often visited. Mrs. Lyle wore a charming gown of midnight blue with a V-neck trimmed with a rhinestone band. Her flowers were a cluster of orchids, which graced her left shoulder. The lovely honor guest was gown in madonna blue chiffon fashioned along Grecian lines with a deep décol-lete in the back, and full flowing skirt, which extended to form a slight train. The cowl neckline in front was fashioned to form a flowing scarf which was held at the shoulders with clips of brilliants. Miss Lyle carried a nosegay of white gardenias and valley lilies, and wore a cluster of orchids on her shoulder.

Miss Beeler was becomingly gowned in white crepe with interwoven silver threads. The cowl neck was adorned with turquoise clips, and she wore a shoulder spray of purple orchids.

Presiding at the beautifully appointed coffee tables were Mesdames Eugene Ransom and Lawrence Vickery. Others assisting were Mesdames Inman Gray, Charles Danna, Tom Fuller, A. F. Irbay and R. T. Dozier. At midnight supper was served buffet style in the dining room of the club. Guests included members of the Debutante Club, their escorts, and a group of friends of the hosts and honorees.

Grant Park Club Party.

Mrs. C. L. Chosewood Sr. will entertain Grant Park Women's Club members at the meeting and Christmas party at her home at 700 Confederate avenue, S. E., at 11 o'clock on Friday. A Nice Oily Lipstick That Is Fragrant With Lavender

By MIGNON. I've often wondered why someone didn't make a lipstick that was oily enough, lasting enough and at the same time fragrant. I thought perhaps it wasn't possible to put all three things into one single lipstick. I've discovered that I was wrong. It is not only possible but it has been accomplished and the result is something to rave about. The stick itself is ornamental so far as the case is concerned, but of course that is incidental. We want lovely cases, but we want more, a good lipstick. The case is black (it may come in other colors) and the cover is a gold crown.

The trick that makes it outstanding, a real find, is that it is perfectly perfumed with lavender. The manufacturer may call it by some other name, but to me it is lavender in its finest form. When I asked what it was, I was told it was "just perfume." I dispute that, it is lavender. I have never before tasted lavender,

Household Arts By ALICE BROOKS.

LACY KNIT IN A SMART ONE PIECE. Pattern 5411.

"You made it yourself?" Admiring friends are immediately impressed, and well they may be, though few realize how easy it is to knit. The body of this one-piece dress is a lovely, lacy stitch. Plain knitting forms a yoke that is all-in-one with the rest of the dress. The plain sleeves and collar are knitted separately.

In pattern 5411 you will find instructions for making the dress in sizes 16-18 and 38-40 with long or short sleeves; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McKnight

Joe Lipps, the Georgia boy from Ty Ty, lost a decision fight last Friday night in one of the preliminaries to the Uzcun-Louis fight.

Jack Dempsey, who is helping handle the Georgia heavy-weight, writes as follows:

"Dear Ralph—I have no excuse to offer for Joe Lipps' defeat at the hands of Max Marek last Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

"Lipps just couldn't get going in the same form he displayed several weeks ago when he boxed and defeated George Turner in the Garden. However, when it was pointed out to me that this boy Marek has the distinction of having whipped Joe Louis (having Louis on the floor several times), the Georgia boy was not disgraced by his showing.

"I am sending Lipps home for Christmas and I am certain he will call on you with Sam Sobel. Thanking you for your interest in this boy whom I am trying to get to the top, and with kindest personal regards, I am, sincerely, JACK DEMPSEY."

It's a true story the greatest champion writes. And a curious one.

THE TOUCH OF DESTINY.

Joe Louis and Max Marek were amateurs in Illinois less than three years ago.

They met in an intercity match and Marek gave Louis a convincing beating, flooring him several times.

Last Friday night, Marek won a decision over Lipps, and as he climbed out of the ring and started down the steps, he met Louis coming up. They stopped and shook hands. "Good luck," said Marek.

You explain all this to me—the touch of destiny. The boy who was good enough to beat Louis two and a half years ago is a preliminary fighter. He would be a quick victim of the colored boy's fists were they to meet again. Louis has earned more than a quarter-million dollars in a year. Marek is getting preliminary money.

There's a story stranger than fiction. The prize ring stories make the late Horatio Alger look like a piker.

Most of the champions whose thudding fists brought riches came from nowhere at all. They come fast. And they go even faster. The white light of fame and publicity burns fiercely, and then turns to ash.

Only Dempsey seems to stay there forever.

We thought we'd never see Babe Ruth out of the picture. But he's dropped from sight almost completely.

But they never forget Dempsey. He still signs autographs by the hundreds each night.

FLORIDA GETS GREAT COACH.

Florida really got a football coach with a national reputation when Jim Joshua Cody was signed to a contract.

There are national reputations and national reputations. One means buying a name with the university very sensibly refusing to pay more than the normal salary, and the alumni pitching in with subscriptions to make up the difference.

The other means hiring a man whom representative coaches know as able men—one who hasn't failed in any tough job.

Josh Cody went to Clemson when Clemson hadn't won more than one game from each of its chief rivals in a stretch of nine years. Cody's teams won three out of four and four for four in four years.

At Vanderbilt—well, he was the man who turned out the line—the line of 1935 included. And it was the line of 1935 which made the 1935 Vanderbilt football team good enough to beat its two old rivals, Tennessee and Alabama.

If Florida alumni and students will fall in line with Josh Cody, they will help develop a winner. A nationally-known name at Florida wouldn't mean a thing unless the co-operation and material is there. Cody knows as much, or more, than any national name. He refused several head coaching jobs, one in the Southern and one in the Southwestern, to stay at Vanderbilt with Dan McGugin. He's a real coach.

Josh Cody belongs to the Salt-of-the-Earth tribe of people.

CODY TO BRING ONE ASSISTANT FOR 'GATOR JOB

Josh Fails To Announce Name of the Mentor To Aid Him.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 17.—

(P)—Josh C. Cody, new head football coach of the University of Florida, will bring one assistant to Gainesville when he reports next spring.

Cody told the Florida Times-Union tonight in a telephone conversation from Nashville, Tenn., he hopes to be released from Vanderbilt in time to start spring football practice the latter part of February.

He declined to announce the name of the assistant he already has selected, saying "that information will come from the university." He said his other assistants will be selected at the close of spring practice.

"I am coming to Gainesville with an open mind," Cody said. "If the alumni coaches now there show they are willing to co-operate with me, I will be glad to recommend that as many of them as possible be retained in one capacity or another. I know all of them, and I hold them in high regard. In fact I wrote Dutch Stanley a letter tonight outlining my plans, and I am certain that he and the other boys will be helpful."

Cody denied a report he had selected Jesse Yarbrough, coach at Miami High school, and Clyde Crabtree, his assistant, to work at Gainesville.

At present, Cody is in charge of the basketball squad at Vanderbilt.

'Gator Staff Pledges Loyalty to Cody.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 17.—

(P)—Members of the coaching staff at the University of Florida in a joint statement tonight promised "complete co-operation" with Josh C. Cody, new head football coach. They asked the people of Florida to "put their collective shoulder to the wheel" and give Cody an opportunity to succeed.

Their statement follows:

"As we stated in the beginning we today stand ready to serve our alma mater in any way that we may be called upon. We believe that the new coach, Josh Cody, to be excellently qualified as a football instructor and a man possessing those qualities of leadership and character so essential to the proper discharge of his duties.

"It should be evident that no school can attain success without complete co-operation from all; therefore, we respectfully request that for the next three years the people of Florida put their collective shoulder to the wheel and give the new coach an opportunity to make a real contribution to athletics at the University of Florida.

"Coaching staff, University of Florida."

Alumni Pressure Switches to Jones.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 17.—

(UP)—Edgar Jones, Florida University athletic director, tonight apparently was marked as the next target for alumni fire following deposing of Head Coach Dennis "Dutch" Stanley.

Appointment of Josh Cody, assistant Vanderbilt athletic director, as head coach, left Jones untouched last night.

Alumni leaders who led the fight to remove Stanley and to strike at the principle of alumni-coached teams at Florida, today appeared ready to concentrate their fight in the future on the athletic director.

Athens Grid Team To Be Feted Tonight

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 17.—The Athens Rotary Club will honor coaches, players, cheer leaders and managers of the Athens High school football squad, winners of the tenth district championship, here Wednesday. It is the annual occasion for the club to entertain members of the Georgia and Athens High school gridiron teams.

Track Sensation Enters Georgia

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 17.—

Georgia's track prospects were given a boost tonight with the announcement by 19-year-old Robert Packard, Rockford, Ill., sprinter sensation, that he would enter the university after the holidays.

Packard, who has accepted an invitation to compete in the Sugar Bowl meet at New Orleans December 28, hails from Coach Rex Enright's home town. Enright calls him "one of the speediest men I have ever seen."

In the national interscholastic high school meet in 1933 and the national junior A. U. championship in Lincoln, Neb., last July, Packard made great showings. He intends to try for the Olympic team next spring. Young Packard specializes in the 50, 60, 75 and 100-yard dashes and the 200-meter run.

Savage Wins As His Dog Watches

Leo (Whiskers) Savage, Kentucky hillbilly, won his second straight match when he beat Joe Strongbow, Oklahoma Indian, last night at the Atlanta theater, in the feature match of Henry Weber's weekly card. It was the last match of 1935, as the weekly attractions will be suspended during the holidays.

Savage won in straight falls and had "Ranger," his black possum dog, as one of his ringside admirers. The hound was tied to one of the ring posts and seeing that his master had the situation well in hand, offered no yelps or barks.

The Kentucky hillbilly won both falls with a body hug, the first coming in 13 minutes and the second in four minutes. Strongbow was forced to give up the second fall.

In the semi-final, Cy Williams, former University of Florida tackle, won over Joe Cox, of Kansas City, in 39 minutes. Cox was continually warned by the referee for pulling hair, kneeing, choking and illegal use of hands. Williams roughed the match at the last and won with a series of forearm blows.

Bill Middlekauff, former University of Florida backfield star, was given a decision over Pete Shue, when the latter ran from the ring in the opening match.

CAVALCADE OFF FOR RICH RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(P)—Cavalcade, reigning three-year-old of 1933, will embark on a comeback campaign this week when he leaves his winter quarters at Columbia, S. C., for California with the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap at his chief objective.

The English-bred colt from Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable has fully recovered from the ailments that beset him since he was forced into retirement in midseason two years ago after winning six of his seven starts and $111,235. His only defeat was by a stablemate, High Quest, in the Prekness.

The latest injury occurred at the start of the suburban handicap at Belmont Park's spring meeting, when he threw his jockey. In his first race of the season, he had finished second to Head Play in an overnight event.

"Cavalcade is coming along very nicely," Howard Holmes, agent for the stables, told the Associated Press. "He is working out four miles a day and galloping soundly. Physically he is perfect."

The Brookmeade ace went west for the Santa Anita race last year and was made a favorite over such former greats as Equipoise, Twenty Grand, Mate and Head Play. Five days before the classic, he turned up with a hoof injury and was withdrawn.

TECH HIGH CARDS TO GRID CLASHES FOR 1936 SEASON

First Game at Erie, Pa.; Thanksgiving Game To Be Arranged.

By Roy White.

A 10-game football schedule, the limit set by the Atlanta board of education for the city's high school teams, was announced Tuesday by W. O. Cheney, principal, for Tech High next year.

The season will open with Erie Academy, of Erie, Pa., on September 11 and close with Boys' High on November 13. It will be the earliest closing in the history of prep football here.

And, with the early closing, it is likely that Tech High will arrange a Thanksgiving Day game away from home, since it will not take up any time from school duties to play such a game.

Richmond Academy, of Augusta, will be the only new team on the schedule, while Riverside Military Academy, Russell High and Monroe Aggies have been dropped from the 1935 list.

Following the Erie game, Marietta, Decatur, Commercial, G. M. A. Eto-wah, Richmond Academy, Benedictine, Asheville and Boys' High. All the games except Benedictine at Savannah and Asheville at Asheville, will be played at night at Ponce de Leon park.

HERE IN 1937.

The Asheville contract calls for another game in Atlanta during the 1937 season and was arranged when the Smithies played Asheville this year en route to Erie, Pa., during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Spring practice will be started during the first week in February and will continue for six weeks.

The 1936 schedule:

September 11—Erie Academy, at Ponce de Leon.

September 18—Marietta at Ponce de Leon.

September 25—Decatur at Ponce de Leon.

October 1—Commercial at Ponce de Leon.

October 9—G. M. A. at Ponce de Leon.

October 16—Etowah at Ponce de Leon.

October 22—Richmond at Ponce de Leon.

October 31—Benedictine at Savannah.

November 6—Asheville at Asheville.

November 13—Boys' High at Ponce de Leon.

GIVE 32 SWEATERS.

Letters and sweaters were given to 32 members and three managers of the Tech High football team. The awards were made Tuesday morning.

Those receiving the awards were: Burge, Culpepper, Moore, Watson, Dye, Cunningham, Ryers, Wilson, Webb, Pass, Plaster, Manning, Ellis, Hale, Wallace, Pair, Stanford, Smith, C. Harrison, Allen, Williams, Heard, Hood, J. DeLaney, Shanks, Finbork, T. Harrison, Melvin, W. DeLaney, F. Harrison, Kelley and McDaniel. The managers were Robert, Wellborn and Hill.

Wade Favors High Marks For Boys

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 17.—(P)—

Wallace Wade, Duke University football coach, believes that establishment of high scholastic requirements for participation in football would provide the best means for preventing undesirable men from entering that campus activity.

"For the good of football," Wade told the Duke football banquet guests last night, "I believe that scholastic requirements in general I am opposed to any sort of regulation which will make it impossible for the poor boy, or the boy who is working his way through college, to engage in athletics. I would certainly care to have no part in college football if it is to be made exclusively a rich man's game."

Wade last week attended the Southern Conference meeting in Richmond, Va., where proposals were informally broached looking toward adoption of stringent regulations against any financial aid for college athletes. The conference will meet next February to officially consider similar proposals.

"I feel that the most practical and effective way to keep out of college football people who have no place in this educational activity is to set up a very high scholastic requirement for participation in it. The Southern Conference is probably the only leading athletic conference in the country that has no scholastic requirements for participation."

HAD SOME 66'S.

He had some rounds of 66 in important tournaments. He had one at Hot Springs in 1923 and he put two together in winning the French open in 1929. The St. Cloud course is not as difficult as some, but still it is a golf course and a 66 is a 66 in France or Timbuctoo.

Horton Smith is still a youngster. He wasn't admitted to membership in the grand and fraternal order of the human race until May 22, 1908.

MAJOR NEYLAND SEEKS PENSION

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 17.—(P)

Official announcement of Major Bob Neyland's acceptance of a five-year football coaching contract at the University of Tennessee has been delayed until Neyland completes arrangements to retire from the army.

Williston Cox, a member of the U. T. athletic board, said today.

"He has accepted the university's offer subject to his army retirement," Cox explained.

"By retiring about the middle of December he can get about $22 more a month for the rest of his life," Cox added. He will have completed another year of service in the army.

Cox said Neyland assured him in Knoxville several weeks ago that he "could get out of the army all right, but it might take some time."

Neyland, now stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, has been in the army 23 years. Under a recent act of congress he can retire and receive a percentage of his base pay.

The 43-year-old army engineer, who coached the Volunteers from 1926 to 1934, is expected to report to the university about January 1.

His plans call for Colonel Paul H. Parker, athletic director, and Major Bill Britton, present coach who succeeded Neyland, to serve as his assistants as formerly.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 17.—(P)

Official announcement of Major Bob Neyland's acceptance of a five-year football coaching contract at the University of Tennessee has been delayed until Neyland completes arrangements to retire from the army.

Williston Cox, a member of the U. T. athletic board, said today.

"He has accepted the university's offer subject to his army retirement," Cox explained.

"By retiring about the middle of December he can get about $22 more a month for the rest of his life," Cox added. He will have completed another year of service in the army.

Cox said Neyland assured him in Knoxville several weeks ago that he "could get out of the army all right, but it might take some time."

Neyland, now stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, has been in the army 23 years. Under a recent act of congress he can retire and receive a percentage of his base pay.

The 43-year-old army engineer, who coached the Volunteers from 1926 to 1934, is expected to report to the university about January 1.

His plans call for Colonel Paul H. Parker, athletic director, and Major Bill Britton, present coach who succeeded Neyland, to serve as his assistants as formerly.

OGLETHORPE 'MOTHER,' MRS. CRUM, IS DEAD

Matron at University Had Been Ill Only One Day.

Mrs. Annie Lou Crum, known affectionately to hundreds of Oglethorpe University students and professors as "Mother Crum," died at 8:10 o'clock last night after an illness of only a day.

Mrs. Crum was a graduate of Wesleyan College and was a daughter of William Jacob Sannett, at the time of his death president of Auburn College. Mr. Sannett was the first honor graduate of the first graduating class of Oglethorpe when the institution was located at Milledgeville. Prior to becoming president of Auburn he was a professor at Emory University.

Mrs. Crum's mother was the former Miss Sara Helen Hall, of Sparta, Ga. Her husband was Dr. J. W. Crum, prominent Jackson businessman.

Mrs. Crum is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. F. Wiedeman, of Atlanta, and Mrs. G. H. Minglehoff, of Douglas, Ga.; two sons, B. S. and William J. Crum.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

CUBAN KIDNAP SUSPECT IS KILLED BY GUNMEN

Intelligence Officer, Prisoner Slain as Attackers Strike Back Second Time.

HAVANA, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Cuban gunmen struck back for the second time in 24 hours after the rescue of the millionaire Nicolas Castano from his kidnappers tonight, killing an army intelligence officer and his prisoner as they rode in a motor car in midtown Havana.

Police seized the automobile from which the gunfire came and arrested two men they said were the assailants. The other occupants of the car escaped.

The chauffeur of the army car said the machine used by the assailants answered the description of the one used in the killing of three Castano prisoners last night.

The dead were Jose Jesus Gonzales, an army intelligence agent, and Casimiro Mendez, his prisoner.

They were moved down by gunfire while Gonzales was taking Mendez in an automobile to military headquarters.

NORRIS DECLINES TO JOIN DEMOCRATS

Insurgent Republican, Nevertheless, Promises To Support Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris, an insurgent republican for most of his 30 years in congress, steered clear today of an offer to affiliate with the democratic party, although pledged to work for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Keith Neville, Nebraska democratic national committeeman, announced during the afternoon he had extended an invitation to Norris to affiliate with the democrats, but said the senator had declined.

"He told me," Neville said, "that he thought the suggestion came at an inopportune time."

The committeeman did not amplify his statement and Norris, "questioned about the incident, declined to comment. The offer was made when the two met at a conference called by Secretary Ickes to consider means of coordinating three big public power projects in Nebraska.

LIE DETECTOR TEST OFFERED FOR BRUNO

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(UP)—Dr. William Moulton Marston, prominent in developing the lie detector, said tonight he had written to Governor Harold Hoffman, of New Jersey, offering to test Bruno Richard Hauptmann and Dr. John E. (Jafie) Condon with the device.

"It will prove Hauptmann's guilt or innocence," Marston added.

He suggested that representatives of the prosecution and defense and one neutral person, appointed by Hoffman, be present when the test is made.
